Second Only to the Sun

WHEN the sun—the greatest wonder of the world—fails us, and we have to look to artificial heat for comfort, the best substitute is a Gas Fire.

The ruling principle of Gas Fire construction is that the larger proportion of the heat emitted shall be radiant, like that of the sun, and the fire therefore hygienic and pleasant.

THE MODERN GAS FIRE IS DECIDEDLY "THE NEXT BEST THING" TO NATURE HERSELF.

Our wide range of Gas Fires awaits your inspection.

The Irish Free State

has been received into the League of Nations with the genuine welcome and good wishes of all its Members.

She is free to develop her own future in friendly competition with her neighbours. This position has been won after many mighty efforts. From a commercial point of view the logical thing to do is to seize this priceless opportunity and drive home the advantage to the uttermost by stimulating industrial and commercial effort—by increasing our export trade—by providing that security and stability which will alone attract what is called Capital, so that new enterprises may be undertaken.

BUT—what are the conditions with which existing Capital is faced—to say nothing of prospective Capital? The example of Dublin is Illuminating (and Dublin, as the Capital of the country, should be, and could be, a hive of industry).

As the public are only too well aware, there are many industries paralysed to-day, because thousands of men are prevented from working—it is known as striking—on the plea that they cannot accept less wages, because the cost of living is so high—and the assertion is boldly made that the employer has not the right to decide the extent to which his business can give employment—this is to be determined by some external authority in the name and under the patronage of modern democracy.

In the long run Public Opinion asserts itself—and the Public in this instance have a duty to perform. That duty is no less a one than self-preservation.

A little dispassionate thinking and calm reflection will bring home to the Public that they have to choose between two courses. They can take advantage of the opportunity above referred to and plump for continuous effort, steady progress and prosperity on the one hand, or, on the other, they can have the tyranny, want and misery that follows in the wake of Bolshevism and Communism, notwithstanding the seductive and alluring pictures painted by the apostles of those creeds which have so successfully reduced the once mighty nation of Russia to ruin. If the latter course is taken it will certainly do more harm in a couple of years to the Irish Free State than resulted from seven centuries of misgovernment by her best Customer.

Assuming that this vexed question hinges on the high cost of living—and that is the bait the public are asked to swallow—is it not self-evident that the cost of production and the eventual selling price is intimately bound up with the cost of handling and distribution, and if the selling price is to be reduced to the lowest possible figure every factor that goes to determine that price must be reduced?

As a matter of fact, the cost of living has dropped from 176 per cent., over the 1914 figure to 71 per cent. It must be borne in mind, however, that, as the cost of living advanced from 1914, wages went up in proportion, and reached what is known as the Peak Point in 1920.

Now, as a business proposition, and by the ordinary method of reasoning, it would be expected, with a guaranteed minimum wage, that, as the unnatural cost of living went down, there would be something like a proportionate decrease in wages, and to a very large extent this has taken place in every country where common-sense and the idea of self-preservation prevails except in the Irish Free State.

Take the case of the Dublin Dockers' strike. Here are the facts:—

In the year 1914 Dublin Dockers worked 60 hours per week and were paid 30s. per week. By the year 1920 they were paid £4 10s. per week, and they worked 46 hours per week, as opposed to 60 hours in 1914. In September, 1921, the Dockers' wages were reduced by 6s. per week, and in February, 1923, by a further 6s. per week, so that, on the date of their ceasing to work (16th July), they were in receipt of 78s. per week. They now refuse to take a lower wage, in spite of the reduced cost of living, and completely ignoring the significant fact that the Dockers in other cities are paid the following wages:—

Belfast, 64s.	Liverpool, 55s.	Glasgow, 55s.	London, 55s.
(46 HOURS)	(44 HOURS)	(44 HOURS)	(44 HOURS)

Now, in the face of these figures will any sane citizen of Dublin assert that the Dockers are acting in a reasonable way, or that it is possible for Dublin to exist as anything but a musty museum if such an attitude on the part of labour is to be persisted in?

It is to be assumed that organised Labour has confidence in the Leader of its Parliamentary Party, Mr. Thomas Johnson, who, so far back as October 22, 1921—nearly two years ago—writing in the "Voice of Labour," declared his mind on the subject in the following precise and clear-cut words:—

> "It is true that a stand-fast rigidity is futile. We have to recognise that, if wages remain stationary while prices are falling, it is equivalent to a rise in wages, and that to refuse obstinately to discuss wages rates, in any circumstances, is to invite disaster."

Mr. Johnson's vision was accurate, and his words prophetic. The disaster he anticipated has not only knocked at the door of Dublin, but it has got one foot well inside the door.

IT WILL TAKE THE FULL MORAL COURAGE OF ALL HER CITIZENS TO SAVE DUBLIN, BUT DUBLIN CAN AND WILL DO SO IF DUBLIN DARES.

The employers of Dublin do not set themselves up as paragons of virtue, and they are not out, at any rate as a body, to crush the workers, upon whose co-operation their success depends, but rather to foster, as far as they can, the recognition of mutual needs and aspirations, and to make Dublin what it ought to be, the mainstay of Irish Industry.

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

ACQUIRED TASTES.

While squeezing lemon and sprinkling cayenne-pepper carefully on my oysters on the 1st of September (how gourmets welcome the months which have "r" in them!), I pondered on the subject of acquired tastes, but only with my subconscious mind; the conscious was occupied by wondering whether oat-cake or thin brown bread and butter was the best to accompany my little Dutch oysters.

Acquired tastes—what are they? Are they hereditary, having been "acquired" by some remote ancestor, or are they the result of training and example? The taste for oysters is usually an acquired one, and if a child will eat an oyster with relish, you may safely affirm that it is not a natural, but an hereditary, liking.

I remember once seeing a silly youth give an oyster to a fat little Willoughby pug; it was a plump, succulent oyster (such a waste!), but the pug's behaviour was ungrateful. He was forced to swallow that bivalve in spite of furious spitting and coughing and the violent rage that the usually gentle pug can show when insulted; for it was an insult, and the person who did the deed was never forgiven by the dog: he snarled and hid under a chair whenever that youth entered the room.

The term "acquired tastes" is usually connected with food, but there are many other "tastes" which we "acquire" or pick up as we go through life. Unfortunately, they are sometimes those tastes that we would be better without!

There is the taste for money, which comes to men who in business are forced to make it their chief aim. They may have had simple ideas as young men, but when successful in business the lure of making money for itself or for what it brings turns them into calculating machines, whose language and thoughts are seldom unconnected with £ s. d.

"Le Sport" has been an acquired taste with the French, and it has become almost an obsession with them, just as tennis is with us. Sport is a good thing, the sporting spirit a better; but when sport is an altogether "acquired taste" it goes too far. Less absorption in games and sport would, I think, be advisable where women are concerned, at any rate.

Many, indeed, are the small acquired tastes which attach themselves to us through life, some good and useful, some harmful. The love of ease is one, that laisser aller spirit which often comes to those who have fought a losing fight with difficulties which were first faced with courage.

The love for solitude and quiet is another; it comes to many whose lives have been laid in noisy cities in their youth.

Devotion to one's native land is often an acquired taste, and only shows itself first when one is far away from it.

I think, too, that the love of children is sometimes an acquired taste. Many women take but a slight interest in other people's children, but in after life they become adoring grandparents and have a motherly feeling for all young children.

Of all acquired tastes (that are not abstract) the most valuable is a love of books. A desire for reading can be acquired, though not easily, and only in youth. An interesting book read aloud by a reader with a good voice and delivery may awaken a taste for literature in one who has been too lazy or indifferent to attempt reading more than a short story or the newspapers.

To "acquire," strictly speaking, means to "gain," but I believe that there are some things for which certain people can never acquire a taste, and therefore lose something in life.

The lover of the classics will never care for mathematics, and vice versa. The tattler and gossip (man or woman) will never learn to find happiness in books nor resources in themselves. The man whose instinct in sport is "to kill" will never love tamer pleasures, and the "born bachelor" and club man can never learn to acquire a taste for home and domestic bliss.

MAY SLADE.

EVENING DRESS.

More than any other type of garment an evening dress gives opportunities for indicating the personality of the wearer. Her character, taste, good looks, or the unfortunate lack of them, may be read by an observer as plainly as he can read the page of a printed book. And as she has immense possibilities for showing herself to advantage, she has also great possibilities for failure.

No makeshift arrangement is possible for an evening gown, which must be complete and correct in every detail, whether it is a simple dance frock, a ceremonious evening gown for receptions and dinners, or the house gown, which now does duty for informal, intimate evenings at home.

Long lines and flowing draperies are the great secret of success, the best draperies being not the elaborately puffed out affairs beloved of many French dressmakers, but rather the simplicity of those seen in a Grecian robe. Picture frocks, provided that one can wear them without feeling self-conscious, are always charming, and never look out of fashion, because they were never strictly in fashion. A study of old costumes in portraits by the great masters will result in innumerable suggestions for these gowns. The present fashion is for perfectly plain, almost negligible bodices and very elaborately trimmed skirts. These gowns are amusing, and have a certain novelty, but are not truly artistic, because, so to speak, they "cut up" the figure and impose a line which is not that of the natural human form. They lack the unity of design given by lines running from shoulder to hem in unbroken folds.

Dance frocks require quite different treatment from the regal evening gowns. They must be shorter and wider in the skirt, for a narrow skirt is not only ugly when pulled tight by the movement of dancing, but is responsible for many nasty falls. The wide crinoline-shaped skirts are ideal for dancing—they are so comfortable, are not easily disarranged, and their lightness suits so well with the smooth gliding motion over the shining floor. Certainly, they make ones dancing look infinitely more graceful than it appears in an ultra-narrow skirt.

For dance frocks no material looks so delightful as tulle, with its suggestion of ethereal lightness; but it is highly extravagant wear, as it must be fresh and uncrumpled if it is to be worn at all. Of silks, the best are those which have no suggestion of hardness; the dull charmeuse, for example, being preferable to taffetas, which is considered smart at the moment. Pannes, velvets and chiffons are alike delightful, and lace has a sweet charm all its own.

Head-dresses have now assumed a great importance. They suit dark women better than fair ones, and are often overdone, many gentle, little women appearing in feathered and jewelled head-gear only suitable to fancy dress, or to some fantastic stage costume. Nothing can so greatly change one's appearance—but do we really want to look different? More charming, perhaps; but not strangely changed!

Evening gowns owe something of their success to the well-chosen accessories—to the lovely fans of painted gauze, exquisite lace, or soft feathers (which require practice in the art of using them gracefully); to the beautiful jewellery, to the pretty little bags, where handkerchief, latchkey and powder puff find a sumptuous hiding place.

And cloaks! How lovely they are now when we may wrap ourselves in straight lengths of gorgeous materials, cunningly draped; when we may copy the cloak in some old Italian portrait, and still be in the height of fashion. If we like to be luxurious in furs, we may, perhaps, find warmth and beauty in a cloak of snowy ermine lined with silk of sunlight yellow, or in a sable wrap whose lining is as gorgeous as the dress it covers.

M. Q.

FOR THE COOK.

GAME.

Game should be hung for some time before it is cooked, in order to make it ripe or "high." But it should never be allowed to hang until it has an unpleasant smell: Water fowl, such as wild duck, teal or widgeon, should not hang more than one day.

When the breast feathers come out easily it is a sign that the bird is ready for plucking. For pheasants, another test is when the blood drops from the beak. Pheasants should hang longer than partridges. Both require to be well cooked. Game, as a rule, should be slightly underdone.

Wild duck should be served either with an orange salad or lemon salad, or with some accompaniment, having orange or lemon as the characteristic flavour.

A salad is usually served with game. Cranberry sauce or cranberry jelly is frequently served.

The four usual adjuncts for game are:—A good brown gravy, bread sauce, fried crumbs, potato chips, water cress being used as a garnish.

TO TELL WHEN BIRDS ARE YOUNG.

Grouse, partridges, snipe, quails, and ortolans, when young, have short, round spurs. Old grouse and partridges have yellow legs and dark bills. They are not good for roasting.

Woodcock, when old, have pointed spurs, and the feet are hard and thick; when young their spurs are blunt. When the bills look soft and unsightly, and the throat muddy, it is always a sign that the birds have been killed long.

In venison, when young, the fat is clear and bright.

If hares have sharp claws, ears damp, and the cleft in the lip narrow, it is a sign that they are young.

A BODY-BUILDING BREAD

"Bermaline," rich in all the qualities which go to body-building, is the best bread for children, and is, you will find, the bread they like best to eat.

For the young people are very sound judges—their palates being unspoiled and unprejudiced. They have no "theories." "Yes" and "No" come from their lips with the air of final decision that is born of conviction alone. They know at once what's nice and what isn't, and all say "Yes" to "Bermaline."

Let them eat of it as much as they will, and as often. Give them every chance to become sturdy citizens.

"Bermaline," made from the choicest wheats and malted barley, contains everything necessary for perfect nutrition. It is easily digested, absolutely pure, and emphatically the finest bread—brown or white—for building up sturdy constitutions and making healthy, happy children. See that they get it.

"Bermaline" Bread

WELL-KNOWN SKIPPER RETIRES.—Captain William Kearney, doyen of Cross-Channel steamer captains, has retired. For forty years he sailed ships of the Sloan Line (which succeeded the Dublin and Ardrossan Shipping Company) between Dublin, Douglas, and Silloth. He was particularly well-known in connection with the Yarrow. It will be remembered that this ship and the Enda were attacked near the Kish Lightship, off Kingstown, by a German submarine. The Yarrow escaped under cover of a smoke screen. The Enda claimed that it sank the submarine. Captain Kearney is succeeded by Captain Dougal MacPhair, from Tyrree, an island off the west coast of Scotland.

HATCH STREET TRAMS.—The Southern Quays tramway service was resumed yesterday after a long period of suspension. The trams run from Parkgate street, via Kingsbridge, the quays, Great Brunswick street, Westland Row, Merrion square, Ely place, St. Stephen's Green, and Hatch street to Harcourt street.

ROSSLARE - FISHGUARD CATTLE BOATS.—A cattle-boat service between Rosslare and Fishguard will be inaugurated to-day. Advices of shipment of enough animals to fill three boats have been received already, and with the suspension of the Waterford-Fishguard sailings owing to the strike, the new service should prove very successful. Some 350 men have been engaged in Rosslare in connection with the new service.

KILLALOE ESTATE DIVIDED.—The demesne of Derry Castle, on the Tipperary side of the River Shannon, near Killaloe, has been divided by the Estates Commissioners between small farmers named Michael Quigley, Denis Gleeson, Patrick Clancy, Mathew Vaughan, Patrick Minogue, John Barry and John McNamara. Each man receives twenty to thirty acres. The estate formerly belonged to Colonel Gartside Spaight. The mansion, Derry Castle, was maliciously destroyed by fire last year.

INSURANCE STAMPS LAW.—In a prosecution at Bruff, Co. Limerick, for failing to stamp employés' insurance cards, the employer said that the employés refused to pay their contributions. It was pointed out that the employer was bound to stamp the cards weekly, and to deduct the amount of the employé's contribution from the wages.

NENAGH COUNCIL.—A Local Government Inspector visited Nenagh last week, and as a result it is expected that the Urban Council will shortly operate again. The streets and laneways of the town have not been cleaned for three weeks owing to the resignation of the Council and the dismissal of all the roadmen.

TRADE DEPRESSION.—Five hundred persons are drawing the out-of-work donation at Nenagh. Work is very scarce in the town and neighbourhood. The population of Nenagh town is 4,900 and of the urban district 4,700.

KNOCKED DOWN BY MOTOR LORRY.

AGED WOMAN'S DEATH.

At the Dublin City Morgue yesterday, an inquest was held on Catherine Carr (71), 11 Stafford street, who died on Friday last from the effects of injuries received through being knocked down by a motor lorry at Parnell street on 29th August.

It appeared that a motor lorry driven by Michael Casey, Cruagh, Rockbrook, Rathfarnham, was moving slowly along Parnell street, and went close to the footway when meeting a tramcar. Mrs. Carr stepped on to the road in front of the lorry and was struck by the left mudguard. She fell and the wheel went over her legs.

William Carr, a son of the deceased woman, said that his mother had told him that the motor driver had sounded no horn. He did not report this to the police.

Mrs. Fanning, Coleraine street, a daughter of the deceased woman, said that her mother told her that she was standing on the footpath, when two cars were coming along, with a tram, in the centre of the road. One of the cars pulled in towards the footway, catching her shawl. She fell and the back wheel passed over both legs.

Sergeant P. Flanagan, D.M.P., said that the deceased woman had told him that she attached no blame to the driver.

Michael Casey, Cruagh, Rockbrook, Rathfarnham, driver of the lorry, having been cautioned, stated, in reply to Inspector Dixon, that he was travelling towards Capel street along Parnell street, when a pony and van came towards him, followed by a tram. When passing the van at Ryder's row the accident occurred. He pulled up immediately, and his brother said, "There's a woman killed." His brother jumped out and attended to the woman. Mrs. Carr, when seen by the witness in Jervis street Hospital, said that she had no ill-feeling against him; it was only an accident.

In reply to the Coroner, the witness said that he was an experienced driver.

To Mr. Maguire (for next-of-kin), the witness said that he did not see the woman. She was lying in the channel after the accident.

The jury found that death was due to pneumonia following on the injuries received by accident, and exonerated the driver from all blame.

Protect the Enamel. Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

This Offers You

what you'll be glad to know

A new-type tooth paste, based on modern research, has brought rich benefits to millions. Dentists the world over now advise its use. You see one of its results in glistening teeth wherever you look to-day.

This offers you a delightful test, to show what it means in your home.

The foe of film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it. So it clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays there. Most tooth troubles have a potential origin in that clinging film.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look cloudy. It forms the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth — the acid may cause decay.

It was alarming

Tooth troubles due to film were constantly increasing. Very few escaped. The situation was alarming. So dental science sought for film combatants.

Research discovered two. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring. Able authorities proved those methods effective. Then a tooth paste was created, based on modern knowledge, and those two film combatants were embodied in it.

That tooth paste is called Pepsodent.

New protection

Pepsodent brings other new protection. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids as they form.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

In all these ways, Pepsodent is bringing to careful people of some fifty nations a new dental era.

For beauty's sake

Men and women who want prettier teeth must fight that dingy film. People who want cleaner, safer teeth must combat it.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

What you see and feel will soon convince you. Cut out the coupon now.

ALL CATTLE TO BE MARKED AND ACCOMPANIED BY DECLARATION.
(1) Cattle intended for shipment must be accompanied by a declaration made by the consignor of the cattle, or his authorised agent, on a prescribed form, giving the names and addresses of the persons from whom they were purchased, the place and date of purchase, and showing how they are branded or otherwise marked for the purposes of identification when landed in Great Britain. This Declaration must accompany all cattle consigned to a Port for shipment, and WHERE THE ANIMALS ARE CONSIGNED BY RAILWAY, THE DECLARATION MUST BEAR A CERTIFICATE SIGNED BY THE STATION-MASTER OR CONSTABLE ON DUTY AT THE STATION indicating the name of the Station and the date of entrainment.
(2) The present requirement as to marking of cattle, before landing in Great Britain, with a clipped cross will cease to operate as from 1st October, but the Inspectors at the Shipping Places are empowered to refuse the necessary Health Certificate in respect of any head of cattle which is not marked in such a way as will enable the animal to be identified in Great Britain, or which is accompanied by the prescribed Declaration duly completed.

EAR-TAGGING AFTER LANDING IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Every head of cattle landed from Ireland must be tagged in the ear with a numbered metal tag of approved pattern, to be supplied by the occupiers of the landing place. Arrangements have been made whereby the tags will be supplied to owners of cattle who are themselves prepared to fix the tags, at a charge of 1d. per tag. In the case of booked-through cattle, the arrangements are that the tagging of such cattle will be undertaken by a Constractor on behalf of the occupiers of the landing places, at a charge of 2d. per head in addition to the cost of the tag (1d.). The tags will be fixed in the ears of the cattle either by the owners of the animals or the tagging contractor, as the case may be, whilst the animals are undergoing the prescribed 10 hours detention, and, in any case, before they leave the reception lairs.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1923.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Notwithstanding the dockers' strike, work at the port of Dublin was plentiful yesterday, nearly thirty vessels being under discharge. It is hoped that the Ministry of Industry may be able to call another conference this week, or early next week.

The price of petrol will be reduced by 2d. per gallon as from to-day.

A party of armed men attacked Kiltimagh military station on Friday night and fired shots at it for several hours. On the following night the soldiers arrested six men at a dance three miles away.

Five armed men broke into the Civic Guard station at Bellgar early on Sunday morning and carried away the Guards' uniforms and boxes.

Four men are reported to have escaped from custody in Athlone detention barracks early yesterday morning by scaling the walls.

The Dublin Corporation has passed a resolution recording its opinion that the time has arrived when the political prisoners ought to be released.

GREAT BRITAIN.

General Smuts arrived in London yesterday for the meeting of the Imperial Conference. He said that he was looking forward to meeting the Irish Free State delegates.

The German Chancellor met Ruhr industrialists yesterday. The majority favoured the proposed abandonment of passive resistance. "Junker" elements in political parties are more bitterly opposed to "surrender" than ever, and there is a grave fear that civil war may follow the official announcement of the new policy.

Disaster has attended the Gordon Bennett balloon race from Brussels. Three balloons were set on fire by lightning, and five aeronauts killed. Five balloons are still missing.

ABROAD

A state of siege has been proclaimed in Bulgaria, where there have been further encounters with Communists, who aim at establishing a Soviet Republic. The Cabinet has been reconstructed.

Several villages in Northern Persia have been destroyed by earthquakes. The casualties number at least 123 killed and 100 wounded.

SPORTING.

At Leicester yesterday Eastern Monarch won the Leicestershire Stakes.

The New Courts.

The second stage of the Courts of Justice Bill will be opened to-day in Dail Eireann. The Bill follows closely the proposals of Lord Glenavy's Committee, which was invited eight months ago to help the Free State's Government and Parliament to "fashion an administration of justice upon which the people will lean with confidence and affection." President Cosgrave's invitation to the Committee suggested that his Executive regarded the existing system as "a standing monument of alien government" and would welcome very radical measures of reform. Fortunately, as we think, the Committee did not accept the full licence which seemed to be offered to it. The terms of the Bill are not revolutionary. Briefly, it proposes, by establishing a national system of District Justices' Courts, Circuit Courts, a High Court, a Criminal Appeal Court and a Supreme Court of Appeal, to cheapen the cost, without cheapening the quality, of Irish justice. Nevertheless, the changes which it involves are sufficiently drastic, and some of their effects—as, no doubt, Lord Glenavy's Committee would agree—are at present incalculable. The administration of justice is not merely a matter for lawyers: it concerns the liberties and pockets of all subjects of the State. Hitherto, on account of the elections and for other reasons, the country as a whole has taken small interest in the Courts of Justice Bill. This attitude is foolish and even dangerous.

Here, for instance, is an aspect of the Bill which demands careful study by the business members of the Dail and by the business community. Section 37 creates Circuit Courts of Justice which will replace the existing County Courts and will have jurisdiction in actions of contract and tort up to a sum of £300. There will be jury trials in these courts, and a majority vote of nine of the twelve members of the jury will determine the verdict. Furthermore, such cases will be tried in the venue where the defendant ordinarily resides or conducts his affairs. It is not difficult to see that this arrangement may have an adverse effect on the commerce of the Free State. Let us suppose that a manufacturer in Manchester consigns goods on credit to a trader in an Irish country town. The trader says that the goods are not up to sample and refuses to take delivery of them. Then the manufacturer must sue the trader in the trader's own town. The defendant will ask for a jury of his fellow-townsmen, which will know all the circumstances of the case, from his point of view, before it arises for trial. Is it unreasonable to hint that the manufacturer may hope, at the best, for a disagreement of the jury? Dublin, too, is likely to be at a considerable disadvantage under this new system. If a country trader refuses to pay for goods sent from the capital, the Dublin merchant must sue him in a possibly remote part of Ireland before a jury consisting largely, perhaps, of the trader's friends.

Credit is based on confidence and any such results of the new system as we have indicated would be highly injurious to the credit of the Free State. A time might come quickly when traders in the Saorstat would be unable to obtain goods from England except for cash, and Dublin wholesalers would be forced to measures of extreme caution in their dealings with country towns. There are other matters in the Bill that seem to invite criticism—for example, the rather unequal distribution of the Circuit Judges, the lack of any appeal in certain cases beyond the Supreme Court of Appeal, and the possible results, professional and social, of the dissipation of the Irish Bar into a number of small local Bars. We propose no solution of any of these problems. We make our criticism for what it is worth, mainly in the hope of arousing public opinion to the really national importance of the coming discussions in the Dail. Lord Glenavy and his Committee have done their work with care and skill. They have sought earnestly to adjust well-tried traditions and practices to a special and peculiar set of needs, and the country is much indebted to them. Their task, however, was extraordinarily difficult, and the shape in which the Courts of Justice Bill will become law must have vital influences, for good or ill, on every aspect of the nation's public and private fortunes. Not a single one of us can afford, therefore, to regard the debates on the Bill as the exclusive concern of lawyers and politicians. It is certainly the most important issue which will confront the Business Party in the course of the present Parliament.

Conference.

The arrival in England of General Smuts, the South African Premier, draws attention to the fact that the Imperial Conference will open in London next week. Messrs. Massey, of New Zealand, Bruce, of Australia, Mackenzie King, of Canada, and Warren, of Newfoundland, will be the other chief delegates to the conference; and it is believed that Messrs. Cosgrave and O'Higgins will attend the opening meetings, at any rate, as representatives of the Irish Free State. In an interview at Southampton General Smuts assured the Irish people of the sympathy with which South Africa was following their efforts to make a success of their present Constitution. The most interesting portion of his speech, however, was devoted to a statement of South Africa's views on European politics. His people, he said, were "in complete harmony with the policy of the British Government," and when the authority of the League of Nations was challenged by Signor Mussolini, "it was most heartening to see with what unanimity the other Powers, great and small, had followed the British lead, and had rallied instantly to the support of the League." Who would have believed twenty-two or twenty-three years ago that Jan Smuts, the Boer chieftain, would be uttering those words on British soil within a quarter of a century? The other Dominion Premiers are men of British stock, whose loyalty to the Empire was bred in their bones; but General Smuts is a Dutchman, who fought to the end against British domination, and now holds one of the proudest places in the councils of the Commonwealth. Twenty-three years hence, we hope, the Free State of Ireland will have taken her rightful place among the British Dominions, and Irish statesmen will be playing a part in Imperial affairs which will be no less important than that which is being played by General Smuts to-day. A start will be made next week when delegates from the Free State will sit in conference with their peers from the other Dominions. The decisions of the Imperial Conference—and more especially of its economic offshoot—will affect the Free State in many ways. Any extensive scheme of Imperial Preference is bound to react on the trade and commerce of the Free State; therefore, the personnel of our delegation is of the highest moment. President Cosgrave and Mr. O'Higgins, if they go to London, are unlikely to be able to remain there during the six weeks over which the conference probably will extend. Domestic affairs will demand their presence in Dublin, for both the Judiciary and the Local Government Bills will be on the tapis. Their substitutes at the Imperial Conference ought to be chosen with the utmost care. They should be men not only skilled in the problems of Irish economy, but qualified in every way to maintain the best traditions of the Irish race.

Petrol and Roads.

Another twopence is removed as from to-day from the retail price of petrol, and the Irish public, which has clung to the motor habit with the most praiseworthy persistence in the teeth of hard times, bad roads, wars, the restraint of brigands and Customs barriers, will rejoice exceedingly. Petrol is now, approximately, twopence a gallon cheaper than in 1913. This benefaction, combined with the promise of settled conditions and at least a hope of improved roads, will permit the oft-discussed question of the transport of freight by road to be revived. Speaking on this subject to the Dublin Rotary Club yesterday afternoon, Mr. R. W. Archer struck the right note when he declared that nobody wished to see motor haulage competing with the railways. Conditions in Ireland, however, are such that there is hardly any economic hope or prospect for any but long-haul or trunk lines. Branch lines and narrow-gauge systems that, in more industrial and densely populated countries, are the veins and arteries from which railways draw their financial life-blood, are not economic possibilities in a thinly populated and agricultural land. Nevertheless, the wealth of such a country must be tapped, and the more cheaply and effectively it is tapped the more prosperous and productive the country will become. To this problem road haulage is the only solution, and if the country could be covered by an adequate network of motor transport systems, ancillary to the main railway lines, the Irish farmer no longer would go in fear of being undersold in the English markets by his foreign competitors. The chief desiderata are courage and money. If the Irish investor waits until the sun of Irish commercial prosperity is shining radiantly before he emerges into the fields of enterprise, he may wait a long time. It is the man who is prepared to leave something to chance—who will examine the financial weather and decide that it is going to be fine while the sky is still dull and the air a little cold—who is going to be his own and his country's benefactor.

The Balloon Race.

The fate of five of the balloons which ascended on Sunday from Brussels to participate in the Gordon Bennett race is still unknown; but the recorded disasters that befell no less than four of the remaining entrants must shake the faith of believers in lighter-than-air craft as a useful means of aerial locomotion. One balloon fell into the sea off the Danish coast, and the crew were rescued by a passing steamer. An American balloon was struck by lightning over Dutch Brabant and both occupants were killed. A Spanish balloon caught fire—also, apparently, in a thunderstorm—and came down near Malines: one of the crew was killed and the other injured. A Swiss balloon crashed in a field near the River Nethe, and both of the crew seem to have been struck dead by lightning. Two other balloons collided at the start and were damaged, but succeeded in landing without mishap. It may well be asked, in view of such a result, what useful purpose balloons and balloon races can serve. In the days before aeroplanes were invented balloonists added valuable data to our scientific knowledge of the upper atmosphere. The reputed altitude of 37,000 feet, reached by Coxwell and Glaisher in 1862, never has been equalled by an aeroplane. During the Franco-Prussian war the French made an extensive use of balloons as a means of maintaining communication between beleaguered Paris and the outer world; and even in the great war captive "sausage" balloons were of immense service. As a means of aerial locomotion, however, even the dirigible has failed to achieve results commensurate with the cost and risks, while the unguidable balloon can provide no scientific data. The Brussels performance ought not to be repeated.

MOTOR HAULAGE.

WIDE FIELD FOR TRANSPORT IN IRELAND.

At the weekly lunch of the Dublin Rotary Club, yesterday, Mr. William McConnell, O.B.E., President, in the chair, an address was delivered by Mr. R. W. Archer on "Motor Transport Throughout Ireland."

In the course of his remarks, Mr. Archer said that there were an immense number of places throughout the country which had no railways cutting through them. In the present state of the country, however, he would not favour schemes which would enter into special competition with the railways, which had a hard time, and a competing road haulage scheme might well prove their death blow. Before a road haulage scheme could be made successful certain conditions must be fulfilled, including improvement of the roads and grants from the Government for the poorer districts to start the wheels of progress. With the aid of a map the lecturer pointed out a number of centres within easy reach of Dublin which could be dealt with in such a motor transport scheme as he advocated, including Cootehill, Oldcastle, Athboy, Carrickmacross, Kingscourt, Edenderry, Castlecomer, Killeshandra, and Sligo and Bundoran, which were not connected by rail.

As showing the need for motor communication, he mentioned that if goods were ordered by a firm in Castlebar from a local dealer in Ballina the letters would take about two days to arrive at the latter place, although it is only forty miles distant; while if the stuff were ordered from Dublin it would be delivered much more quickly. Such conditions were a great disadvantage to local traders throughout Ireland, and showed the big field that existed for motor transport. As to cost, he estimated that a four-ton truck with an Irish-made body would cost £300, and the running cost worked out at a little over 6d. per mile, and that, charging at the rate of 4d. per mile, would put the scheme on a paying basis at once. The proposed vehicles would carry goods and passengers, and he suggested that new business would be created by its operation.

The poor and soft roads in Ireland, compared with England, would probably mean doubling the cost of working in this country. He could give no information on that point beyond the fact that the Government were appointing a Road Board, on which there would be representatives of several interests. The railways had never been satisfactory, and latterly they were still more unsatisfactory. He suggested that the Government should go into the question of taxation. The income tax should be reduced—(applause)—and as for the motor tax, it was really iniquitous. At present the tax was put on a car whether it was used once a year or every day. The tax should not be put on the car, but on the amount of petrol used. The money for the maintenance of the roads should obviously be drawn from the rate-paying public. The money from the motor tax should be applied to the making and improvement of roads. The damage done to the roads by private cars was small compared with the damage done by commercial vehicles. He thought that the Government should be asked to do all in its power to have communication made by road, linking up places at present isolated in the manner he had referred to.

An interesting discussion followed, and a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Archer for his address.

OBITUARY.

LORD VENTRY.

As briefly mentioned in the Irish Times of yesterday, the death of Lord Ventry took place on Saturday morning at Brighton in his sixty-second year. Born in 1861, he succeeded to the title and to extensive estates in County Kerry in 1914.

He was educated at Harrow, where he distinguished himself in the cricket and football fields, being in the cricket eleven and the football team of 1879. In the same year, with Mr. Manley C. Kemp, he won the Public Schools Racquets Championship.

Entering the Army in 1882, he had a distinguished career with the 4th Hussars. He was on active service in South Africa during 1896-7. As an extra staff officer he did excellent work, for which he was mentioned in despathces, and, for service while in command of the Mashonaland Field Force in 1897 he was further mentioned and awarded the D.S.O. and granted the brevet rank of lieutenant-colonel. Subsequently he rejoined his regiment in India, but a year later, as a result of an attack of fever, he was invalided home. His health broke down badly in 1906, and since then he has never been himself.

In his time Lord Ventry was an all-round sportsman, an excellent shot, and a first-class fisherman. While his health permitted he enjoyed fishing.

Lord Ventry was greatly interested in agricultural matters, and some years ago introduced into Kerry the growing of New Zealand flax. He was fully convinced that flax-growing, if given a fair chance, would have greatly benefited the farmers in his native county.

UNITED STATES AND IRISH-MADE GOODS.

IMPORTANT MARKING REGULATIONS.

The Irish Free State Government Publicity Department issues the following statement:—

A question arose recently respecting delay in the clearance of Irish imports to America owing to the refusal of the Customs authorities at New York to regard the marking "Deanta i n-Eirinn" in Gaelic lettering as a compliance with the ruling that all marking should be printed in English. It also transpired that the words "Made in Dublin" were not regarded as a compliance with the regulations. The matter was brought before the Customs authorities at New York by An Saorstat Trade Representative there, with a view to having such markings accepted as an indication of the origin of Irish goods. Those authorities replied that Section 304 of the Tariff Act requires the marking of imported articles "in legible English words . . . so as to indicate the country of origin." Marking in Gaelic, or any language other than English, cannot, therefore, be accepted under United States law, and in consequence the use of the words "Deanta i n-Eirinn," either in Gaelic or Roman characters, is not permissible. With regard to the use of the names of cities to indicate the country of origin of imported goods, the Customs authorities at New York hitherto accepted the names of the cities of London, Paris, and Berlin as sufficient to indicate the respective countries, England, France, and Germany. After further consideration they have now agreed to accept the words "Made in Dublin" as sufficient to indicate the origin of articles manufactured in An Saorstat.

It is desirable that exporters from An Saorstat should comply strictly with the United States Customs Regulations; otherwise they may be subject to considerable penalty and delay in having goods cleared.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference. — The large depression off our western coasts continues to move eastward, and rain is likely to spread to all districts during Tuesday. Winds will be strong, reaching gale force in places, from a southerly point at first, becoming westerly in the South and West later.

Ireland. — Southerly wind, veering westerly, strong to a gale; rainy at first, fairer later; thunder locally; visibility moderate to good; cool.

South-West Seaboard, Mouth of Channel to South-West Ireland. — Wind southerly, veering west, strong to a gale; sea rough; rainy, then fairer; visibility moderate to good.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.— Wind southerly to south-westerly, strong to a gale; sea rough; some rain; visibility moderate to good.

LONDON LETTER.

A CABINET MEETING.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The Prime Minister has decided to hold a Cabinet meeting on Wednesday, when there is every prospect of a full gathering; for Ministers not in London are said to be hurrying back as quickly as possible. The statement that a meeting will be held is rather significant, since the communiqué issued by the Foreign Office last week on the Paris meeting stated that there was no reason why a Cabinet meeting should be held this week.

The Prime Minister, on his return to London to-day, started a series of discussions with Lord Curzon on the Paris meeting, and, no doubt, both Ministers will have a great deal to say to each other. It rather appears that the meeting took place contrary to the views, if not the wishes, of Lord Curzon, and, inasmuch as he has such very strong ideas on the attitude of France towards reparations, it is impossible to forecast what may come as a result of the discussions now beginning.

Rumours.

It must be admitted that the need of a statement from the Prime Minister on the visit becomes more and more evident. Conjecture is running mad, and to-day we are told that the British Government is on the eve of taking a decisive step towards solving the economic problem of reparations. The suggestion is made that this country is to finance the credit operations that are to put Germany on her feet and satisfy France. This sounds ridiculous. Great Britain is most unlikely to finance a bankrupt Germany in order that France may receive the benefit, and it seems impossible that Mr. Baldwin ever would entertain such an idea. The statement, however, that he does is quite sufficient to disturb the taxpayer, and the sooner the country knows the facts the better it will be.

The Stott College.

The Philip Stott College at Overstone Park, near Northampton, where Mr. Baldwin is to deliver his first speech since his return from Paris, is what may fitly be described as the nursery or forcing house of Conservative agents and speakers. Generally there are some forty to fifty students in residence, and they undergo a complete course of study on the policies and principles of Conservatism, with games and sports to add variety. The school breaks up on Friday, and on Saturday there will be a conference of Conservative agents. Mr. Baldwin will arrive at the College for luncheon, and will deliver his speech afterwards.

Germany's Dilemma.

It is apparent that a bitter struggle is in progress in Germany with regard to the Ruhr. Dr. Stresemann has decided upon unconditional surrender, but he is being strongly pressed to demand the release of all Germans arrested for disobedience to French instructions, and the return of all who have been deported from the occupied area. M. Poincaré has refused to consider any surrender accompanied by a demand for these concessions, and the German Chancellor has discovered a way out of the difficulty by suggesting a surrender which will be unconditional so far as the termination of resistance is concerned, but will be followed by a declaration that Germany has a right to expect that these concessions will be made when the surrender is accomplished. This is a somewhat crude form of diplomacy, and does not appear to be quite in conformity with the French demand that the termination of passive resistance shall be unrestricted. The German Chancellor, however, is in a very delicate situation. He rests between the deep sea of surrender to France and the devil of an infuriated Bavaria.

Lord Morley.

Very little has been seen of Lord Morley in the public world for the last two years, and virtually his last public appearance as a politician was in December, 1921, when he moved the Address in reply to the Speech from the Throne on the Irish Constitution Bill. His appearance then attracted a great gathering, eager to pay tribute to his sterling honesty as a statesman. Probably the most sensational moment of his political career was when he rose in the House of Lords during the discussion on the Parliament Bill to warn the Peers that the King had agreed to exercise his constitutional powers, which might involve the creation of Peers. His words created a tremendous impression, since they made it clear that Mr. Asquith would rather swamp the House of Lords with new-made Peers than suffer the loss of the Parliament Act. The threat, naturally, was effective. The Peers submitted to a stretching of the Constitution, and the Act became law.

Lapse of a Peerage.

With the death of Lord Morley his Peerage lapses, for he has no heir. In 1919 Lord Morley was left an annuity of two thousand pounds by Mr. Carnegie, in company with Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. John Burns, and it is thought that otherwise he was not a wealthy man.

Tubercular Ex-Soldiers.

The Ministry of Pensions has just made an interesting announcement regarding those suffering from tuberculosis aggravated by service in the war. The scheme for vocational training of officers, nurses and men suffering from this disease, which is at present confined to men resident in England, is to be extended to disabled men ordinarily resident in Wales, Scotland, the Irish Free State and Northern Ireland. This scheme provides for courses of vocational training, combined with treatment at certain institutions for the treatment of tuberculosis. These courses should enable disabled men to become efficient workmen, and to earn a livelihood at the occupation in which they have been trained. Application for admission to the training courses will be considered if the applicant is suffering from tuberculosis accepted as attributable to, or still aggravated by, service in the Great War, and if he is certified to be in consequence of that disability unable to follow his pre-war occupation.

A Royal Wedding.

The wedding of Lady Louise Mountbatten to the Crown Prince of Sweden at the Chapel Royal, St. James's, on Saturday, November 3rd, will be as quiet as it is possible for the wedding of an heir to a throne to be. The chapel is very small, and there will be very little room outside the members of the Royal Family, Ambassadors and State officials, who will necessarily have to be present. There will be no public display of wedding presents. The ceremony, however, will be distinguished by the presence of the King and Queen and the King of Sweden, who is to be a guest at Buckingham Palace.

The Farming Crisis.

The papers devoted to agricultural interests published to-day unquestionably support the attitude taken up by the farmers with regard to corn-growing. The Mark Lane Express states that "the deputation which has been appointed to wait upon the Prime Minister at the very first opportunity agreeable to him will place before the Government the true facts of the case, and we venture to think that, if the people of this country realise the importance of the question, they will not refuse to take some steps to prevent large areas of good corn-growing land from going out of cultivation.

CHANCELLOR CONSULTS INDUSTRIALISTS.

RUHR SURRENDER APPROVED

STRONG OPPOSITION FROM EXTREMIST PARTIES.

GRAVE DANGER OF CIVIL WAR.

The first of a series of conferences between the Chancellor and the political and industrial leaders to discuss the advisability of abandoning passive resistance in the Ruhr was held in Berlin yesterday. No official statement was issued after the meeting, but it is known that the majority of the delegates were of the opinion that further resistance is useless.

The Chancellor will meet the Federal Premiers to-day. Several of these will strongly object to the proposed policy of surrender, but the majority will side with the Government. The Chancellor will be in a position to make a statement of policy in the Reichstag on Friday.

This is expected to take the form of a declaration that passive resistance has been ended, coupled with an appeal to France to release the prisoners and allow the return of those expelled from the Ruhr.

Junker elements threaten to rise in armed revolt, especially in Bavaria, where a Monarchist coup may be attempted. Preparations have been made for proclaiming a state of emergency throughout the country, and the Government, which has every confidence in its forces, will deal drastically with rebels.

AT THE CROSS ROADS.

CONVICTION VERSUS THREAT OF CIVIL WAR.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BERLIN, Monday.

The tumult which grows hourly in Germany—threats of civil war from Right and Left alike—is not intimidating the German Government. It still adheres firmly to its decision to acquiesce unconditionally in the French demands in regard to the breaking off of the Ruhr passive resistance movement. If the junkers or Communists attempt to overthrow the Republic the Government will act, and will strike at the rebels swiftly and resolutely, and, since it has confidence in the Army—such, at least, is the view expressed in official circles here this afternoon—will strike successfully.

The decision to break off passive resistance unconditionally has been taken because no other sane policy is possible if bankruptcy, social chaos, and political chaos are to be averted.

"Dou you want war against France?" the Chancellor is understood to have bluntly asked a deputation of protesting German Nationalists who waited on him.

No answer was returned to this searching question.

Dr. Stresemann and the Cabinet fully realise that the passive resistance policy is no longer practicable. Its ending, or its substitution by active resistance, is the only choice. The Government has chosen the former course, and sane German opinion, once the present tumult has subsided, will doubtless endorse that choice.

At a morning conference the Chancellor received twenty Parliamentary representatives from the Ruhr, while later in the day 120 delegates of Ruhr employers, workers, and Burgomasters assembled at the Chancellery. At the first meeting Hugo Stinnes was present, but apparently took no part in the debate which followed the Chancellor's opening speech.

The proceedings were confidential, but it is understood that Dr. Stresemann expressed the belief that once resistance were called off, the reasonableness of the German Government's demands for the release of Germans arrested by the French and the return of those expelled would be conceded by the French Government.

The debate revealed the profound bitterness of spirit prevailing in the Ruhr, but the inevitability of the decision was not seriously challenged.

INCITEMENTS TO REVOLT.

These conferences in Berlin are, perhaps, of less importance than the situation developing in Bavaria.

"Surrender" to France in the Ruhr provides the long-awaited excuse for the Bavarian monarchists to strike their blow at the Central Republican Government. Big junker meetings, at one of which General Ludendorff was present, were held at various centres in Bavaria yesterday, when fiery speeches calling for armed action were delivered.

In Saxony the danger, of course, is from the Left. Further street disorders occurred in Dresden this morning, but no serious revolt movement is anticipated.

attitude of the Minister of Defence, Herr Gessler, was severely criticised, and Socialists clearly expressed the view that they had no confidence in him.

The Democratic Party to-day gave Herr Gessler an opportunity to defend his policy. He spoke on the internal political situation in connection with the latest rumours of impending revolt, and said that if it came to a fight he would stake his political reputation that the Reichwehr would execute his orders promptly.

It is stated that all preparation for proclaiming a state of emergency have already been taken by the respective Ministries.

"DAYS OF FATE."

Berlin newspapers, in their leading articles, refer to Germany's "days of fate." They point out that this is the most critical week since the creation of the Republic. The whole Press, except the ultra Nationalist organs, admits the necessity for the abandonment of passive resistance.

Herr Stinnes's organ, the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, consoles itself with the remark: "France has the superiority in arms, but we have the fame."

The Berliner Tageblatt says that the German people in the Ruhr who have defended the last liberties of Europe against the hegemony of French militarism, are now on the verge of collapse from hunger and exhaustion.—(Reuter.)

PUBLIC APPREHENSION.

OPPOSITION TO RESERVE "LIBERTY OF ACTION."

BERLIN, Monday.

Decisions of far-reaching importance are likely to be reached during the present week. For the time being, the steps taken by the Government towards abandoning passive resistence in the Ruhr are not being made public. Berlin is, in consequence, at the mercy of the wildest rumours, the greater part of which are self-contradictory.

Nevertheless, there is considerable public apprehension lest chance should set in motion the forces of disorder, which are only lightly held in check.

For the next three days the discussions in progress will keep the atmosphere tense. The Cabinet sat yesterday from five in the afternoon till two in the morning, in preparation for the discussion held to-day with the representatives of the Ruhr.

The Government desires, for obvious reasons, to have a body of opinion behind it representative of the Ruhr in the widest possible degree. All the members of the Reichstag and the Prussian Diet, representing constituencies in the occupied areas, the District Presidents, the Burgomasters, the representatives of the Industrial Federations, representatives of the officials' associations and the trade union leaders are taking part in the discussions.

The Cabinet first conferred this morning with a small group selected from these representatives on the organising of the lines on which the resumption of normal life in the Ruhr can take place. Subsequently, a general discussion took place, at which all the representatives were present. This meeting continued till this evening. The Cabinet is to meet again later to consider its statement to be made to the Federal Premiers, who have been summoned to meet at the Chancellor's palace to-morrow.

This is the most important meeting. It is expected that there will be considerable difference of opinion, and that objections to the course proposed will be raised, at least, on behalf of Bavaria. On the other hand, there will undoubtedly be a majority for the Government's proposals, leaving the opposition to reserve its liberty of action, which it will undoubtedly do.

The conference of Premiers will necessarily be followed by a meeting of the Cabinet, the reception of the Party leaders by the Chancellor, and a meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee, which the Chancellor is expected to address. In these circumstances, the Reichstag cannot assemble on Wednesday, as had been intended, more especially as it would be inconvenient for the Foreign Affairs Committee to sit at the same time. Friday is now spoken of as the earliest possible day, and even that is unlikely.

The Government's declaration, if it be announced, will probably be made in the Reichstag, since it is desirable that it should reach the widest circles, and will then be accompanied by a solemn protest to the world. In view of the indefinite nature of the French demands, this protest will probably present some difficulties, as will the form it will take, but Germany is firmly convinced that the sympathies of the entire world outside France have gone out to her in the struggle.

The Chancellor will, undoubtedly, be subjected to a very severe criticism in the Reichstag both from the Conservative and the Communist benches.—(The Times Correspondent.)

RESISTANCE USELESS.

WEIGHT OF OPINION WITH GOVERNMENT.

BERLIN, Monday.

Herr Hugo Stinnes was among the representatives of the Ruhr region who conferred to-day with the Chancellor and other Ministers on the question of the abandonment of passive resistance.

Although no official announcement as to the result of the conference has yet been issued, it is known that the majority of the delegates are of the opinion that passive resistance must be given up, chiefly for two reasons. In the first place, passive resistance has recently been benefiting the French more than the Germans; and in the second place, the financing of passive resistance used such enormous sums of paper marks, amounting to hundreds of millions daily, that it is now literally impossible to produce them.

It is this fact which Herr Stresemann will impress particularly upon the Reichstag when it meets, which will probably not be before Friday, as the Government will not be able to finish its conferences with the Party leaders and State Premiers before then.

The Democratic Party and the Berlin Socialist group met yesterday in Berlin. The latter adopted a resolution declaring that the present Government had not fulfilled the expectations entertained of it. The policy and

THE PRISONERS IN MOUNTJOY.

PROTEST AGAINST THEIR TREATMENT.

The Sinn Fein Reorganising Committee sends us a copy of a letter addressed by the Officer Commanding the Republican Prisoners in the B Wing of Mountjoy Prison, to the Military Governor, Commandant D. MacManus. It is dated Wednesday, 19th September, and it protests against the alleged "policy of barbarity" which inspires the treatment of the prisoners. The letter states that the prisoners are "ready to submit to the discipline as it existed up to about three weeks ago, and to the conditions then extant." The prisoners demand the restoration of the conditions which obtained when the present Military Governor took up office.

Together with the letter the Committee has forwarded to us a list of alleged acts of terrorism and barbarity committed last week in the prison.

CANADIAN STEEL STRIKE.

OTTAWA, Monday.

The Dominion Government has appointed a Royal Commission to inquire into the causes of the unrest among steel workers at Cape Breton and the calling out of the Militia during the recent strike at Sydney. Dr. James W. Robertson, Ottawa, is Chairman of the Commission.—(Reuter.)

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE.

BRISTOL CLOSED TO IRISH CATTLE.

The English Ministry of Agriculture announces that the existence of foot-and-mouth disease was confirmed on Sunday on premises at Whitchurch, near Bristol, and at Old Clee, Grimsby. Orders have been promulgated prohibiting the movement of animals in areas within a radius of approximately 15 miles of the infected premises.

The Bristol district includes parts of the Counties of Gloucester, Somerset, and Wilts, and Bristol itself. The landing of animals at Bristol either from Canada or Ireland is, therefore, prohibited for the time being.

U.S. PRINTERS' STRIKE.

NEW YORK, Monday.

There have been several cases of violence in connection with the printers' strike, one of which is reported to have been fatal. A non-striker employed in a local printing room was hit on the head by a person unknown, and had to be taken to hospital, where he died. Both sides are indulging in recriminations. Use is being made of union funds.—(Reuter.)

TO-DAY'S BUSINESS IN THE DAIL.

COURTS OF JUSTICE BILL.

THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

By Our Political Correspondent.

When the Dail meets this afternoon it will have a pretty considerable programme before it. There are eleven questions to be answered by Ministers, the first of which will be asked by Captain Bryan Cooper, viz.:—Whether the Minister for Finance proposes to act on the interim report of the Fiscal Inquiry Commission, and to repeal the duties now levied under the British Safeguarding of Industries Act.

Alderman Alfred Byrne will ask the Minister for Finance whether he can state when the Dublin claims for destroyed property, commandeered goods, motor cars, etc., will be heard, and whether the Government propose to speed up the re-building of O'Connell street.

Mr. Thomas Johnson proposes to ask the Minister for Industry and Commerce whether he will state the number of persons in insured trades who are at present unemployed, and how many of these are entitled to benefit under the Unemployment Insurance Act, 1923.

After questions the first business will be to elect a Deputy Speaker. It is quite probable that Mr. P. O'Maille will be re-elected. A Committee on Procedure and Privileges, a Committee on Standing Orders for Private Bill Business, and a House Committee will be elected.

The second reading of the Courts of Justice Bill, which was introduced by President Cosgrave last Wednesday, will then be taken. The Minister for Finance has given notice that he will move a resolution asking the Dail to authorise the charging upon the Central Fund of the remuneration and pensions of the Judges of the High Court, the Supreme Court, and the Circuit Court; and also to authorise the remuneration of temporary assistant Circuit Judges and Judges of the District Courts.

The Senate will not meet until this day week, October 2nd.

The Government's Publicity Department had no information yesterday as to which of the Ministers will represent the Free State at the Imperial Conference, which will open in London on Monday next. It is generally understood, however, that President Cosgrave and Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, and perhaps Mr. Desmond Fitzgerald, will be the representatives. President Cosgrave will not remain in London throughout the Conference, because he has to attend to urgent business at home, but Mr. O'Higgins or Mr. Fitzgerald will probably attend most, if not all, of the sittings of the Conference. A series of banquets and public receptions to the visiting members of the Conference is being arranged in London.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

AN INVITATION TO ULSTER.

In the ordinary course of affairs the representation at the Imperial Economic Conference of Ulster's interests, which are so closely linked with those of the remainder of the United Kingdom, rests with the Imperial Government. In view, however, of the important industrial interests that exist in Ulster, the President of the Board of Trade has extended invitations to the Right Hon. E. M. Archdale, Minister of Commerce, and Mr. Cecil Litchfield, the Permanent Secretary of the Ministry, to be present at the Conference in an advisory capacity, so that he may be fully apprised of the circumstances connected with any question that may arise affecting Ulster.

BATTLE OF SUSSEX DOWNS.

ENGLISH ARMY MANŒUVRES.

The English Army manœuvres were continued yesterday, when in the second stage of the battle of Sussex Downs the Red (invaders) Third Brigade, First Division, were pushed back over the River Arun. By nightfall their opponents, the Blues Second Brigade, were in possession of the long crest at the top of Bury Hill, but were "held up" from continuing the pursuit by the river intervening. Many artillery engagements marked the day's operations. The final stage is the battle for the river crossing, and the next move lies with the Blues.

MURDERED IRISH OFFICER.

STABBED WHILE ASLEEP.

LAKHI, BIHAR, Monday.

Further details of the murder of Colonel Magill Kennedy on an East Indian railway train in Bengal during Friday night show that the Colonel left Howrah on the evening of September 21, and asked the guard to awaken him at Kiul. A new guard came on at Madhupur, where the apparently sleeping form of Colonel Kennedy, completely covered with a rug, was pointed out to him. At Kiul, where the train arrived early in the morning of the 22nd, Colonel Kennedy's servant discovered him still covered up, but on examination he was found to be dead, with wounds in his face and neck.

The post-mortem, which was held at Monghyr, disclosed that more than one blow had been inflicted with an instrument like a kukri, and there were indications that the colonel had been murdered between midnight and one o'clock.

His servant states that nothing was stolen except cash, the amount of which was unknown, but it was probably small. An attempt had been made to open the despatch box, but it had failed, the murderer having broken the key in the lock. The colonel's watch and cigarette case were not stolen.

Colonel Kennedy was buried yesterday at Monghyr.

The Bihar Government, the East Indian Railway, and the Tea Districts' Labour Association have each offered 5,000 rupees for information leading to the arrest of the murderer, and the Bihar police are seeking information as to whether persons were seen to enter or leave the train when it was held up near Burwan owing to the signal wires being cut.—(Press Association's Special Correspondent.)

INDIAN UNREST.

MOVE TO EXTEND PASSIVE RESISTANCE.

Congress leaders are combining with Akalis to carry on a pro-Nabha agitation.

Dr. Kitchlew, the well-known Moslem leader, has circularised members of the Civil Disobedience Committee of the Congress to ascertain the advisability of making common cause with the Akalis, with a view to organising passive resistance on an extensive scale.

Akali Yatha bands are proceeding daily to Nabha, where they are being dealt with by the authorities.—(Reuter.)

THE LATE VISCOUNT MORLEY.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

The funeral of Lord Morley is to take place at Golder's Green on Thursday. The remains will be cremated at twelve o'clock noon, and the burial will follow at Golder's Green Cemetery.

Mr. Lloyd George has sent the following telegram to Lady Morley:—

"Heard with deep regret of death of your distinguished husband, and my old friend and colleague. My wife joins me in sending you sincerest sympathies in your great loss."

VISCOUNT GREY'S TRIBUTE.

Viscount Grey of Fallodon, speaking in London yesterday, said that Lord Morley, at the prime of his life, was, he thought, one of the greatest influences upon young men who were taking an active part in the politics of England. He made intellectual intercourse not only interesting, but stimulating, and added to that something else, which he could only describe as personal charm.

STATE OF SIEGE IN BULGARIA.

RECONSTRUCTION OF THE CABINET.

COMMUNIST REVOLT NOT YET QUELLED.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
From Our Own Correspondent.

SOFIA, Monday.

The King has signed three Decrees; the first reconstructing the Cabinet without M. Smiloff, Minister of Justice and a member of the National Liberal Party; a second dissolving the Sobranje, and the third proclaiming a state of siege. The King is expected to sign another Decree within two weeks calling the elections from November 4 to 11.

The Cabinet crisis has nothing to do with the present political situation, but the King was forced into taking action by the refusal of the Socialists to participate in the Government if the Nationalist Party was permitted representation. The main objection against the Nationalists is that they are Pro-German, and hence would make the Government non grata among the Allied Powers. The Sobranje dissolution is merely a form, as the body has not met since the overthrow of Stambuliski.

M. Ruscheff, Minister of the Interior, returning to Sofia this morning from a three days' inspection of the scene of the Bolshevist uprisings and the situation on the frontier, gave out a long statement declaring that the Communistic movement has been entirely suppressed and the danger of a Yugo-Slavian invasion averted owing to the fact that not a single band within Bulgarian territory is ready to cross into Serbia.

While calm has been restored in the large centres, sporadic plots in isolated districts are still giving trouble. The troops are now suppressing uprisings in Bresowme, Brestovitz, and Perouchititza, near Phillipopoli, where a Communistic Republic has been declared. Two hundred and fifty Communists from Tchotchoven, Gavrilovo, Karasarly, and Binoos attacked Sliven, but were repulsed by the Regular troops. Three Communists were killed in the course of the encounter.

The Communists who have been taken prisoners assert that they were acting under instructions from the Chiefs in Philipopoli, Novasagora, and Sofit. All signs of rebellion in these places, as well as in Stara Zagora and Tchirpan have been suppressed.

FIRM HAND IN SPAIN.

BANK ROBBERS EXECUTED.

MADRID, Monday.

The King has returned from San Sebastian, where he has been for a few days.

General Aizparu has arrived at Tetuan, and has assumed the High Commissionership.

Three armed men who on Friday attacked and wounded a University professor at Valladolid, and robbed him of 20 pesetas (approximately 16s.), have been sentenced to fourteen years penal servitude each by court-martial.

The two men sentenced to death in connection with the bank "hold up" at Tarrasa were executed to-day.—(Reuter.)

AMERICAN SHIPPING.

UNPROMISING OUTLOOK FOR MERCHANT FLEET.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

Members of the Shipping Board to-day informed President Coolidge that they are unable to suggest any plan for the profitable operation of the merchant fleet. They said that, owing to various factors weighing against American shipping, the best that could be hoped for was to reduce the losses to a minimum.

Meanwhile the Shipping Board is at work on a compromise plan, to replace the Lasker-Farley plan, which provided for the transfer of the vessels to corporations authorised under State law, and which Mr. Daugherty, the Attorney-General, declared to be illegal.—(Reuter.)

THE LATE LORD RIPON.

SUDDEN DEATH DUE TO HEART FAILURE.

A Coroner's inquiry was held at Studley Royal, Ripon, yesterday evening into the death of the Marquis of Ripon.

Mr. Oswald H. Wade, of Studley Park, said that he last saw the Marquis alive on Saturday, when he was shooting with him on Dallowgill. His lordship made no complaint, and, to all appearances, was in perfectly good health. At the end of one of the drives witness saw Lord Ripon, who was alone, lying on the ground, face downwards, and breathing heavily. He died within ten minutes.

Witness, continuing, said that the Marquis had not consulted a medical man for over a year, and, except for slight indigestion, had been remarkably well. He had been shooting extremely well, and at luncheon was in the happiest vein.

James Hall, a gamekeeper, who was loading for the marquis, said that after his lordship had killed about thirty birds, he said he was about beat, as he had a touch of indigestion. After the last drive he handed his gun to witness without a remark, and they all left the butt. Soon after Lord Ripon fell.

Dr. R. G. M. Harvey, of Kirkby Matzeard, who was called to the moor, expressed the opinion that the cause of death was cardiac failure, and the Coroner returned a verdict accordingly.

The funeral takes place at St. Mary's Church, Studley Royal, at noon to-morrow.

CHURCH CONGRESS.

OPENING AT PLYMOUTH TO-DAY.

About 1,500 members are attending the Church Congress which opens at Plymouth to-day. Among the subjects to be discussed are "Christian Ideals in Relation to Industry, Business, and Civic Life."

The Bishop of Exeter, presiding over a women's meeting yesterday afternoon, dwelt on the responsibilities which now attach to women as a result of their receiving the franchise.

At the English Church Union meeting a discussion took place on the necessity for adequate religious teaching in our educational system. The English Church Union would not, it was asserted, compromise on the question.

THE LETTING OF GRASS LANDS.

SALES STOPPED IN CO. WICKLOW

A public meeting at Ashford yesterday, under the auspices of the local Labour Party, was addressed by Messrs. Everett, T.D.; Turner, Conroy, Secretary local Labour Party; and Smullen. Speeches were made condemnatory of the auction of the Casement estate for grazing purposes. It was decided at the meeting to stop the auction, which, Mr. Everett said, would throw several workmen out starving on the road to make way for the bullocks and sheep. By preventing the sale the Government would have to take up the land and distribute it. They had no objection to small farmers. This was the opening of a campaign against letting on the eleven months' system.

Yesterday workers in Ashford "downed tools," and, headed by their leaders, marched to the Cronroe House, stopped intending buyers, and informed Messrs. Haskins, auctioneers, that they would not allow any sale, not even of implements. As a result no sale was held, and as the workers on the estate are on a week's notice, the steward undertook to communicate with Major Casement as to future action.

The leaders then drove to Kiladreenan, Newtown, and intimated their opposition to the letting of grass for Mrs. Byrne by Messrs. Clarke, Byrne, and Co., auctioneers. Mrs. Byrne, who has been letting her grass for the past four years, explained that she was maintaining the farm for her children, but the leaders prevented the sale.

GENERAL SMUTS.

WORK OF IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

FREE STATES' STATUS.

General Smuts and the other South African delegates to the Imperial Conference arrived in London yesterday afternoon, and were welcomed warmly by a number of friends.

In the course of an interview with Reuter's Special Correspondent, who travelled with him to Southampton in the Union Castle liner, Arundel Castle, General Smuts said that in South Africa they were in complete harmony with the policy of His Majesty's Government in endeavouring to promote the restoration of peace, and in providing a solution of the present impasse in Europe, and he was very pleased to see that the reports of the recent meetings between the British and French Premiers reflected a more hopeful spirit.

South Africa, as one of the smaller nations, had followed the recent tension between Greece and Italy with close anxiety, and had requested her representatives in Geneva to give unqualified support to the League. Italy's attitude had been the first direct challenge to the League since its formation, and it was most heartening to see with what unanimity the other Powers, great and small, had followed the British lead, and had instantly rallied to the support of the League. The incident might well prove the turning point in the fortunes of the League.

EMPIRE TRADE.

The Dominions were anxious to take their part in assisting in the solution of unemployment in Great Britain. It was necessary to secure peace and an extension of the markets. Unless that could be achieved it would be misleading to expect any marked improvement in the situation. When his colleagues at the Economic Conference commenced their inquiry they would find His Majesty's Government sympathetic, and prepared to meet the representatives of the Dominions in drawing up a scheme of inter-Empire trade which would be beneficial.

Speaking of South Africa's trade and economic conditions, General Smuts said that a considerable development was taking place in agriculture in the Union, more particularly in regard to cotton. He very much welcomed the action of the British Empire Cotton Growers' Association, who proposed to send experts to South Africa to assist in the initiatioin of this important branch of agriculture. Empire-grown cotton would prove of the greatest value to several of the Dominions and to the large industrial districts of Great Britain, and he anticipated very great developments in the next few years.

IRELAND'S POSITION.

General Smuts said that he was looking forward to meeting President Cosgrave and the members of the Irish delegation at the Conference. He deplored the fact that brave and devoted Irishmen, with whom he had been in touch when he was last in England, had not been spared to see their efforts crowned by recognition, not only at this Conference, but also at Geneva, of the equal national status of the Irish Free State in the Empire and in the world; but he felt sure that the grim tragedy of the past would spur those concerned with the destinies of Ireland to leave no stone unturned to make a success of their present Constitution, and so justify those who had stood by them.

AMERICAN IDEALISM.

SPIRITUAL FAITH BLENDED WITH COMMON-SENSE.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

President Coolidge, speaking at the annual convention of the American Red Cross, his first public address since he became President, declared that faith in things spiritual, tempered by common sense, was the kind of practical idealism reflected in the history of the United States. The American people were unlikely to adopt any other.

The idealism of which he spoke was, he said, illustrated by the men who went to the rescue of Europe when their own liberty and the liberty of the world were at stake, but who, after victory was won, retired from the field "unencumbered by spoils, independent, unattached, unbought." Another illustration was the recent appeal for $5,000,000 for the Japanese earthquake sufferers, when the American people immediately contributed about double that sum.

He went on to say that men were gradually learning that great wealth, "a mighty army and navy," were not the real rulers of the world. Military forces were necessary to guard the security of nations, just as police were required for the safety of society; but it was significant that leading nations had agreed upon their limitation; and even more significant was it that civilisation was relying more and more on moral force. It was the Red Cross application of this principle that made it such a tremendous success.—(Reuter.)

THE BOILERMAKERS.

BRITISH MINISTER'S DAY OF NEGOTIATIONS.

The British Ministry of Labour last night issued the following:—

Sir Montague Barlow, Minister of Labour, in the course of to-day met representatives of the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation, the Federation of Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades, and the Boilermakers' Society, and discussed with each the dispute which resulted in the lockout of the members of the Boilermakers' Society.

The meeting was arranged as a result of a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Federation of Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades on Thursday last, and communicated to the Minister of Labour, to the effect that efforts should be made to bring the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation and the Boilermakers' Society together with the object of effecting a settlement of the dispute.

After an interview with the Federation, the Minister discussed the situation at length with the representatives of the Boilermakers' Society. He subsequently had a consultation with the representatives of the Shipbuilders Employers' Federation. Later he again saw the Boldermakers' Society and the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades Federation.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

JAPAN'S GRATITUDE FOR SYMPATHY.

GENEVA, Monday.

At to-day's meeting of the League of Nations Assembly the President read a letter from the Japanese delegation, expressing the thanks of the Japanese Government for the sentiments of cordial sympathy of the Assembly on the occasion of the terrible catastrophe in Japan.

The Assembly next heard the report of the Economic Committee, showing marked progress in the study of the principal causes of the economic crisis of the present day, which was adopted. The report recommends the inclusion of arbitration clauses in commercial contracts.

The next subject of discussion was Eastern Karelia. The Assembly agreed that the Council should continue to collect information with a view to finding a satisfactory solution of the dispute between Finland and Russia.—(Press Association Special Correspondent.)

SITUATION IN CORFU.

ALLEGED INCITEMENT BY ITALIAN TROOPS.

ATHENS, Monday.

According to private and reliable advices from Corfu, it is learned that every night Italian soldiers off duty, accompanied by a band, march about the streets shouting "Long Nve Italy. Down with Greece." These reports have created much anxiety here, as it is feared that disturbances might arise in Corfu which would retard the evacuation of the island.—(Reuter.)

A reduction in the price of petrol took place about two months ago, when 3d. per gallon was taken off. The prices ruling up till yesterday were only a penny more than the prices of 1913, so that the new prices, which come into operation to-day, are well under those of pre-war times.

From Our London Correspondent.

Petrol is now one of the few things cheaper than in 1914. To-day's reduction follows a fall of 3½d. in July. The following table shows the remarkable fluctuation in prices since 1896:—

Year.	Per Gallon.
1906	1/4
1914	1/7
1916	2/2
1920—February	3/8½
—August	4/7½
1921—January	3/5½
—May	2/11½
—August	2/5½
1922—September	2/0
—July	1/8½
—September	1/6½

The fall is due to the price-cutting war in America, following over-production. It had been considered for some time that a reduction in this country was inevitable.

It is expected that the price of benzol will also be reduced, but it was stated last night by the National Benzol Company that no decision has yet been reached.

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

INTERNATIONAL TROUBLES.

THE PROBLEM OF THE CONFERENCE.

The Times, in an editorial article upon the Conference of British Ministers, with its subsidiary Economic Conference, which is to assemble within a week, observes:—They (the Ministers) come at a moment when the air is heavy with international troubles, and the members of our own Government, on whom, under present conditions, the brunt of them inevitably falls, might almost be excused if they were to think these conferences an additional and untimely burden. They do not, we are convinced, think anything of the kind. Nothing, in fact, could really be more valuable, however laborious it may prove, than the coincidence between these all too infrequent sessions of the Prime Ministers' Conference and a crisis which calls for decisions affecting the whole course of Imperial politics. No amount of consultation and advice at long range can compare with discussions carried on face to face and from day to day. If for long periods of time the British Government in London is bound to act as best it can in the interests of the whole Commonwealth of British Nations, that is only the misfortune that is imposed upon us by conditions of time and space.

All that matters is, first, that there should be a clear understanding of the right of each Dominion Government to participate when it can in the common business of the Empire; and, secondly, that there should be such practical arrangements as will enable each to receive the fullest information during the intervening periods through its own appointed mouthpiece in London. We lay special stress on the latter point; for the mere circulation of Cabinet papers from a central office is apt to be disregarded, if not suspected, at a distance of several thousand miles. Perhaps, the best compromise of all in present circumstances would be the inclusion in each Dominion Cabinet of a Minister of External Affairs, with a recognised seat at the common table in London whenever it suited him to fill it, and an office and permanent deputy there side by side with the High Commissioner, who would retain his present functions. Some such arrangement as this would recognise both the freedom of the Dominions at any time to exert their influence in discussion and the importance which they rightly attach to receiving full information through their own channel. They may be certain, at all events, that no obstacle will be raised in this country to any plan which will best meet their views in solving what is bound to remain the fundamental problem of the conference.

A GRAVE MOMENT.

ANXIETY IN THE RHINELAND.

The Times Special Correspondent at Cologne states in a message yesterday:—The restlessness and anxiety which, despite outward calm, pervade the occupied territory at this highly critical time, is exemplified in the tone of the Press. The Centre organ, the Volkszeitung concludes a grave article with an urgent appeal to the members of the party to trust their leaders and keep calm:—

"The next few days will call for discipline, courage and faith. The nation is in danger. Let each one show patience and calmness, seeking to appreciate fully the gravity of this moment."

THE ZAGHLUL CAMPAIGN.

POLITICAL EXTREMISM.

In a message from Cairo yesterday, The Times Correspondent states:—Saad Pasha Zaghul continues to pursue a round of activities with an energy remarkable in a supposed invalid. Every day he makes at least two long speeches and holds an almost continual reception of deputations from the provinces and delegations of societies and clubs when not occupied in paying innumerable visits.

Yesterday, for example, he spent two hours with Tewfik Pasha Nessim, and to-day he paid a long visit to the Coptic Patriarch. Zaghul's speeches continue to be in the same tone as those I telegraphed last Friday, consisting of political extremism, combined with violent abuse of his opponents.

MOTOR CAR PRODUCTION.

Telegraphing from New York last night, The Times Correspondent states:—Motor-car production in the United States is breaking all "records." In the first eight months of 1923 the total production exceeded that of either of the two preceding full years, according to the Department of Commerce.

Reports from 181 manufacturers show an output of 2,431,063 passenger cars and 258,774 commercial vehicles, as against 2,339,414 passenger cars and 244,882 commercial vehicles in the twelve months of 1922 and 1,535,196 and 147,168 respectively in 1921. The peak of production this year came in May, when 350,181 passenger cars and 43,228 commercial vehicles were manufactured, and even in August there was a production of 304,010 passenger cars and 30,251 commercial vehicles.

THE LATE MR. TUFTON.

GENEVA, Monday.

The British delegation to the League of Nations, the heads of all delegations of the Assembly of the League of Nations, and members of the British colony in Geneva, attended the Funeral Service in the English Church this evening of Mr. Tufton, Secretary to the British delegation, who died yesterday. The coffin was covered with the Union Jack, and numerous wreaths were placed in the chancel. The body will be taken to England to-night.—(Reuter.)

BALLOON RACE DISASTERS.

THREE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

FIVE AERONAUTS KILLED.

SEVERAL STILL MISSING.

The Gordon-Bennett Balloon Race, which started from Brussels on Sunday afternoon, has been attended with disaster.

Fifteen balloons started, of which three were struck by lightning and wrecked, five of the aeronauts being killed.

Five balloons are still missing. Of the other seven, six landed safely; one came down on the sea, but the aeronauts were saved.

The three which met with disaster were the following:—

Polar (Spain) was struck by lightning at Heyst-op-den-berg, near Malines. The pilot, Señor Penaranda, was killed, and his companion, Señor Gomez, injured.

S VI. (United States Army) was struck by lightning at Niestelrode, in Dutch North Brabant. Lieutenants Olmstead and Choptaw were killed.

Geneva (Switzerland) fell in flames near Moll, Province of Antwerp, apparently having been struck by lightning. Lieutenants von Gruningen and Wehren were burned to death.

Seven other balloons have been accounted for as follows:—

Duro (Spain), landed at Schaydk, in Holland.

Banshee III. (Great Britain), landed safely at Erton, Holland.

Margaret XV. (Great Britain), descended in the sea 28 miles north-north-west of Skagen, Denmark. The balloon and occupants were picked up and taken to Gothenburg.

Fernande II. (France) landed at Lille St. Pierre, near Antwerp.

6669 (United States Navy), landed safely at Putten, Holland.

Zurich (Switzerland), landed safely at Eersele, Holland.

Savoie (France), landed safely at Rethy, near Turnhout, Belgium.

No news has yet been received of the remaining five balloons:—

Picardie (France), Belgica and Prince Leopold (Belgium), Helvetia (Switzerland), and Espheria (Spain).

FIRED BY LIGHTNING.

INJURED AERONAUT'S GRAPHIC STORY.

BRUSSELS, Monday.

Senor Gomez, who was one of the occupants of the Spanish balloon, Polar, which met with disaster during a thunderstorm yesterday at Hoyst-op-den-Berge, near Malines, has been brought to Brussels, as has also the body of the pilot. Senor Penaranda Gomez, who had a leg broken in the fall, has given the following account of the accident:—

"We were nearly over Malines when we drifted into a violent storm. Both of us thought it best to descend as soon as we could find a suitable spot. We got safely within some 350 feet of the earth, and a peasant had caught hold of our guy rope, but unfortunately there was no one else near by to help him. Moreover, our ballast had been soaked by the rain, and instead of falling gradually, dropped out in lumps. The result was that we suddenly rose to between 3,000 and 4,000 feet. It was then that disaster befell us. A crash of thunder, a blinding flash, and the balloon was ablaze.

"My companion collapsed in a heap in the corner of the basket. The flames spread and the balloon began to fall headlong to the earth. Fortunately, the remnants of the envelope fabric acted as a parachute and somewhat lightened the fall, but even then the shock on its coming into contact with the ground was terrible. I was hurled clear of the basket. Some peasants who had witnessed the accident were soon on the scene, and got me out from beneath the wreckage of the envelope. It was not until afterwards that I knew that my companion was dead."

The experiences of the Swiss balloon Geneva was very much the same, but in this case the wrecked envelope did not act as a parachute, and the impact with the ground was so terrific that the basket was partially buried. The Geneva was drifting at about 1,400 feet, and at six o'clock was near Moll when it was struck by lightning, and fell in a field near the River Nethe. Both occupants were thrown out of the basket. The pilot's body was picked up some sixteen feet away, and that of his assistant still further. Both were dead, having apparently been killed by the lightning. The bodies have been brought to Brussels.—(Press Association's Special Correspondent.)

NAVIGATOR STRUCK DEAD.

The American, S 6, which fell at Niestelrode, was struck by lightning when at a great height, says an Exchange message from Brussels, and fell in flames at a great speed. The two occupants were killed instantly. Lieutenant Choptaw had been struck by lightning. Papers and other articles were recovered intact. Both officers, according to American Air Service officials at Washington, were experienced pilots.

LIGHTNING DANGER.

ENHANCED BY ALUMINIUM PAINT ON GASBAG.

"Lightning, of course, is a great danger, but actually it has seldom struck balloons," said Mr. Frank Hedges-Butler, the famous British balloonist, yesterday. "It is a great thrill to pass through a thunderstorm. I am inclined to think that the lightning danger is increased very considerably by covering the gasbag with aluminium paint, instead of varnish, formerly used. It seems to me, as one who took part in the first race for the Gordon-Bennett Cup, that some arrangements should be made to postpone a race of this kind when the weather is bad."

IRISH PHILATELIC CLUB.

The great extension in stamp-collecting in the Irish Free State, caused by the issue of Irish stamps, has led to a large accession of strength to the Irish Philatelic Club. The opening of the season, which extends from October to May, will be inaugurated by a general meeting in the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dawson street, on Friday next, when officers will be elected and arrangements made for a series of papers and addresses by specialists, and the usual displays of rare and curious stamps. New members are invited to join the veterans, and the most juvenile collectors will be made welcome. Incidentally it may be mentioned that another addition to the Free State permanent issue—the 4d. value in the Arms Type—will be issued on the same day.

DOCKERS' STRIKE.

STILL HOPING FOR SETTLEMENT.

PLENTY OF WORK AT THE QUAYS.

Prospects of a settlement of the dockers' trouble in the Free State ports are not so bright as they appeared at the week-end. It has been learned that the announcement that the Ministry of Industry and Commerce had induced the parties to the dispute to again meet in conference was premature.

The position is that the Ministry's officials are leaving no stone unturned to bring about a settlement by conference, but, profiting by the experience of the last attempt to do so, they are, so far, only exploring the possibilities of the success of another meeting of the parties. It is hoped that such a meeting may take place this week or early next week, but, as far as can be ascertained, the situation had not, up to yesterday, passed the stage of hoping.

The Dublin quays were rather busy yesterday. Fourteen chartered vessels were discharging general cargo, and in Ringsend Basin eight colliers were unloading coal. A number of overseas vessels are unloading at Alexandra Basin. Work for casual dockers at the old rate of pay was apparently plentiful.

Yesterday morning the strikers made a new demand. When the ss. Holyhead commenced to discharge her cargo of flour the Strike Committee put forward the claim that, as the cargo was consigned to two different firms, two separate gangs of dockers should be employed on her. The trouble was adjusted, and the work of discharge continued.

GOVERNMENT INTERVENTION.

An Irish Times representative was informed by a leading Dublin importer that those who have in the past carried on the trade of the port, and through it that of a large part of the country, are ready to do so again if protection is provided by the Government. He stated definitely that they could easily restore the normal import and export trade of Dublin, including the live stock trade, by free and volunteer labour, provided that the workers were protected.

STATEMENT BY THE EMPLOYERS.

In a statement published by the Dublin Employers' Federation, Ltd., in our columns to-day, there is a reference to the dockers' strike. The facts of the situation are set out in the following paragraph:—

"In the year 1914 Dublin dockers worked 60 hours per week and were paid 30s. per week. By the year 1920 they were paid £4 10s. per week, and they worked 46 hours per week, as opposed to 60 hours in 1914. In September, 1921, the dockers' wages were reduced by 6s. per week, and in February, 1923, by a further 6s. per week, so that, on the date of their ceasing to work (16th July), they were in receipt of 78s. per week. They now refuse to take a lower wage, in spite of the reduced cost of living, and completely ignoring the significant fact that the dockers in other cities are paid the following wages—Belfast, 64s. (46 hours); Liverpool, 55s. (44 hours); Glasgow, 55s. (44 hours); London, 55s. (44 hours)."

OTHER STRIKES.

There is no move to do anything in the other labour disputes—those affecting the wholesale druggist trade, the chemical industry, and the Grand Canal, which is now lying derelict. The settlement of the drapery wage trouble does not apply to Messrs. Kellett's, South Great George's street, where a melancholy looking procession of young women picketers continues to parade up and down in front of the premises. Their presence does not seem to interfere in the least with the carrying on of the business of the firm. The same may be said of the long-drawn out strike of some of the staff of the Standard Hotel, Harcourt street.

It is stated that in consequence of domestic friction in the station the firemen of the Pembroke Fire Brigade have threatened to come out on strike to-day.

MORE MEN IDLE IN CORK.

The situation regarding the Cork labour dispute remains almost unchanged, but additions have been made to the number of unemployed by the dismissal of many hands in the goods stores of the Cork and Macroom Railway. The goods service has been suspended on this line owing to the absence of traffic caused by the strike, and the discharge of the men followed.

THE WATERFORD FARM STRIKE.

A terrifying form of nightly visits in connection with the farm strike has manifested itself in the County Waterford. Armed men, whose identity is well preserved, visit agricultural labourers who are on strike. One of the most serious incidents occurred on Saturday night. Shortly before midnight a party of five armed men in a motor car drove up to the house of a labourer named William Flynn and rushing into the kitchen ordered the occupants to put up their hands. They then hauled Flynn out on the road some distance away and questioned him regarding the identity of parties who were responsible for burnings and damage to farmers' property. Failing to elicit any information from him, his assailants fired several shots in the air, and afterwards, it is said, beat Flynn on the head and body with revolvers.

They then went to the houses of three brothers named Myler and the house of Patrick Whelan, all of the same district, and interrogated them. One of the Mylers was, it is said, threatened and ordered to say his prayers. The armed men, however, contented themselves with administering a severe beating in each case, subsequently driving away in their motor car.

WATERFORD LABOURERS ACCEPT REDUCTION.

The Waterford builders' labourers after protracted conferences and meetings have agreed to accept a reduction of 1d. per hour in their wages. The Federated Trades met last night to discuss the strike of tradesmen in the building trade in Waterford. It was hoped that a settlement would be reached.

THE SWILLY RAILWAY STRIKE.

A mass meeting of the Railway Clerks' Association, which was held in Letterkenny, on Monday, was attended by all the members from the Derry, Burtonport, and Carndonagh lines. Mr. W. P. Doherty, President, and Mr. W. Algeo, Secretaary of the Railway Clerks' Association, attended.

The following resolution was passed unanimously:—"Resolved, that no resumption of work be permitted until the company are agreeable to unconditionally withdraw the notices issued to Messrs. Blain and Elliott, and further that we call on the Governments of Free State and Northern Ireland to hold an immediate joint inquiry into the administration of Lough Swilly Railway and its extensions."

DERRY BAKERIES' STRIKE.

The position in regard to the strike of Derry bakers' labourers, vanmen, and packers was unchanged yesterday. At a meeting of the masters yesterday they intimated that they were willing to attend a joint conference with the men, to be presided over by the Minister of Labour. This proposal had previously been made by Major McConnell, of the Ministry of Labour, but the men rejected it on the ground that a conference with the masters must first take place, and the only time for the Ministry's intervention would be in the case of a deadlock. The masters intend carrying on as long as they can, but if yeast, coke, or other essential supplies run short they will have to close down, or the bakers may strike through being unable to carry on without the assistance of the bakers' labourers, whose work they refuse to do. Yesterday travellers on incoming trains were seen bringing parcels of bread with them from surrounding towns in anticipation of a shortage, which has not yet become acute.

ILLICIT DISTILLATION.

STILL FOUND ON A FARM.

At the Galway District Court yesterday, Peter Carter, Bama, was sent to jail for two months for permitting a "still" for the manufacture of poteen to be on his land.

The Civic Guards found a still in working order, with a fire lighted on Carter's land. Near it was a quantity of malt and a keg containing poteen.

MILITARY STATION ATTACKED.

A PROLONGED DUEL.

ARRESTS AT A DANCE.

The Kiltimagh Military Barracks were attacked on Friday night at 10.30 o'clock by a small band of men, who took up positions at a distance, and continued to fire rifles at the garrison quarters until 4.30 o'clock on Saturday morning. The shooting caused alarm in the town.

Military activity in the district resulted in the capture at a dance in a village three miles from the town on Sunday night of six men, who were conveyed under strong escort to Claremorris on Monday morning.

When the troops surrounded the dance house some of the men tried to escape, but threw themselves down and held up their hands when the military opened fire. No arms were found on the men, nor were there any casualties.

RAID ON CIVIC GUARD.

UNIFORMS CARRIED AWAY.

Five young men, who were armed with revolvers, raided the Civic Guard barracks at Ballygar, Co. Galway, in the early hours of Sunday morning. The Guards, our Galway Correspondent states, were dressing when a loud knocking was heard and a voice demanded the opening of the door in the name of the Republic.

Five men, with revolvers pointed, rushed in. The Guards, who were taken completely by surprise, were ordered to take off their uniforms, the leader tapping his revolver significantly when the Guards offered a protest. The Guards were compelled to divest themselves of their uniforms, which the raiders seized, together with their batons and watches.

The leader of the raiders when leaving told the Guards that they were usurpers, and that a police force under Republican auspices was about to be established.

Our Roscommon Correspondent states that the raiders arrived in a motor car, and gaining admittance cleared out the barrack, including the men's uniforms, their private clothes and boxes, which they removed to the motor car.

ESCAPE OF PRISONERS.

TROOPS SEARCHING FOR FIVE MEN.

Four men named McManus, Costelle, MacKen, and O'Brien, who were under detention in Athlone Military Barracks, escaped from custody shortly before six o'clock yesterday morning by scaling the barrack wall while preparations were being made for the removal of about a hundred other prisoners by special train to Mountjoy Prison.

When they were missed several volleys were fired to deter other prisoners from attempting to escape.

The four men have not yet been recaptured. The troops are raiding houses in the vicinity of the barracks.

A prisoner, who it is said was undergoing a ten years' sentence, and was about to be removed to Mountjoy, also escaped from military custody in Adamson Castle, Athlone, and is still at large.

POST OFFICE ROBBED.

The Post Office at Ballintubber, Co. Roscommon, was forcibly entered by a man armed with a revolver, who took away postal orders value for over £10.

A man has been remanded in connection with the affair.

REMOVAL OF PRISONERS.

Prisoners in Wexford, numbering about 50, were removed to the Curragh on Saturday by train.

THE FREE STATE POST OFFICE.

A CORRESPONDENT'S GRIEVANCES.

Mr. George H. C. MacManus, of Springfield House, Kingstown, writes to complain of what he describes as the inefficiency of the postal and telephonic services in the Free State. He mentions three specific instances. In College Green Post-office he was obliged to wait for twenty minutes for a telephone call to Kingstown. After he had waited several minutes for an answer from the Exchange (Dublin) he was informed that he should first register the call at the counter. Having done so and paid 4½d. he returned to the box to find it occupied. Before he was eventually put "through" fifteen or seventeen minutes had elapsed.

In Kingstown he says they had formerly three postal deliveries in the day. They have one now, and that is long after business men's departure to business.

For the privilege of having one's letters left to be called for at the Post-office threepence is paid. Our correspondent complains that having paid his threepence the other evening he received a halfpenny circular from a bulb grower. Finally, he asks what is the object of a Customs declaration on a parcel posted in England if on its arrival on this side it has been torn open in such a manner as to make the contents almost unrecognisable?

FERMOY POSTAL COMPLAINT.

At the Fermoy Urban Council Mr. J. Sheehan drew attention to serious inconvenience caused to the public by the delay in the delivery of the letters in the town. There was only one delivery throughout the town, with the result that the mails which arrived in Fermoy Post Office some time after noon were allowed to remain in the office until the following morning, when they were delivered. On Saturday the inconvenience is still greater, as the letters which arrive during the day were not delivered until Monday morning. On asking for a letter at the post office counter a fee of threepence is charged. The matter was a very serious one, and militated against the commercial interests, as well as professional interests, to a great extent, and he thought that the Council should call on the Postmaster-General to restore the second delivery of letters to Fermoy each day.

Mr. J. Lombard proposed that the Postmaster, Mr. McGann, be requested to restore the second delivery each day. There was a great loss of time, and considerable annoyance caused by allowing letters to remain in the post office practically a whole day without being delivered. He thought that it should be the duty of the post office to get rid of the letters with all possible speed.

Mr. J. Kelleher seconded the resolution. The commercial interests did not seem to be considered in any event.

The Chairman, Mr. G. Power, said that a hardship existed in allowing letters to remain in the office, and he expressed the hope that the second delivery of letters would be restored.

The Clerk was directed to convey the resolution to the Postmaster, Mr. McGann.

HELP FOR THE DEAF.

Attention is directed to an advertisement of Mr. R. H. Dent's Acoustique for deaf ears which appears in our issue of to-day. A demonstrator of the Acoustique is staying at the Standard Hotel, Dublin, for the convenience of persons who are unable to visit Messrs. Dent's offices in London, Glasgow, or Manchester. Writing of the Acoustique, the Lancet says:—"The Acoustique, of 95 Wigmore street, London, W. 1, have submitted to us apparatus made by them as aids to hearing for the deaf; 22 distinct types are manufactured by them, besides a stethoscope for the use of deaf doctors and an attachment for use with the telephone; these should be helpful in appropriate circumstances."

AMERICA—GREENLAND—ENGLAND AIR ROUTE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

COPENHAGEN, Monday.

The American aviator, Crumrine, left here yesterday en route for Greenland. He is seeking opportunities for establishing an air route from America to England, via Greenland and Denmark.

THE PRISONERS.

DUBLIN CORPORATION'S ACTION.

"RESTORING HARMONY"

At a special meeting of the Dublin Corporation yesterday—the Lord Mayor presiding—Mr. Michael Flanagan moved:—"That, in the opinion of the Council, the time has arrived when all prisoners, interned or otherwise for what are considered political offences, ought to be set free immediately; that the release of the prisoners will be an interpretation of the manifest desire of the electorate, which found definite expression in the recent elections; and that such a course of policy will do more to restore harmony and promote the national ideal than any other alternative now placed before the people of Ireland."

Mr. Flanagan said that he hoped that the Council would deem it prudent to accept the motion. Anyone who read the newspapers could get a fair idea of what the country generally thought regarding the question of the release of the prisoners. He would be inclined to keep the political aspect of the question out of the debate, and he was bringing the matter forward from the humane standpoint. He would leave out the question of the differences that brought about a cleavage in the Republican ranks, and of whether the Treaty was a good instrument or a bad one for this country. He asked the Council to approach the matter from a reasonable and logical standpoint. There were 14,000 or 15,000 men and women at present imprisoned.

RULES OF WARFARE.

These people were now prisoners of war. Hostilities had ceased, according to Mr. de Valera, and he could not see why these men and women who took part in the military operations on the Republican side should be compelled to remain in prison. If those who were in power at the moment recognised the ordinary rules of warfare, these people should be released. It was given as an argument for the prisoners' detention that if they were released the war would start again. He did not believe that that would be the case, and he hoped that it would not. The longer they kept the prisoners in, the more bitter they would become, and it might result, when release came eventually, that a vendetta would be carried out by some of these people.

He wished to prevent that.

Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington, who seconded the resolution, congratulated the Lord Mayor on his return, and also Councillors Clarke and Raul, who had recently been released from prison.

The detention of the prisoners, she said, seriously affected the farming and other industries. They had to consider the conditions of the dependents of those in jail. She knew of cases where husband and wife were in jail, and also mother and daughter, and cases where the families defendent upon prisoners were actually hungry as a result of this victimisation. She did not think that anybody could be callous to the suffering that she and others were aware of. The Free State Government gave no allowance to the families of these imprisoned. That was a matter of great surprise and comment in other countries. Even the British Government, which had not a record for generosity, made an allowance to the families of the Germans who were interned, and provided—if not adequately—fairly for them.

The present prisoners, if they were prisoners of war, should get prisoner of war treatment, or they ought to get the treatment of untried prisoners when no charge was made against them. Nothing terrible had happened since certain prisoners had been released.

AN AMENDMENT.

Mr. P. S. Doyle said that some time ago there was some kind of mutual arrangement between members of the Council that they would avoid a continuation of that friction which had set so many old friends apart, and he felt that the least said about these issues the sooner would that harmony which they all wanted come back. He would accept the first paragraph, and intended moving that the motion be amended by letting the first paragraph stand and substituting another for the second. His amendment read:—"That, in the opinion of this Municipal Council, in ordinary meeting assembled, the time has arrived when all prisoners, interned or otherwise for what are called political offences, ought to be set free immediately. That we urge the Government to release the internees against whom no charge is to be preferred, on condition that such internees promise not to interfere with the person or property of others, and not to take up arms against the Government elected by the Irish people."

Mr. J. J. Murphy seconded the amendment.

Mr. P. T. Daly, dealing with the amendment, said that it was an inconsistent one, and, if adopted, would do away with the great Magna Charta of which the Englishman was so proud.

Mr. George Lyons said that a hypocritical spirit was abroad, and that in connection with the resolution a great many things had not been said that should have been said. He was for peace, but the spirit of peace was not abroad while there were concealed dumps of arms about, as well as a spirit of antagonism to the authorised and established authority in the country. If there was a sincere desire for peace these dumps should be given up.

He was of the opinion that the war was not at an end, because they had conflicting declarations to those of Mr. de Valera from people who were supposed to have greater influence with the new Republicans than de Valera himself.

At the late elections the action of the Government in doing what it did was fully approved by the people.

Mr. John Lawlor alleged that prisoners were treated with cruelty. How, he asked, could anyone approve of little girls of 15 years of age being imprisoned? What harm could they do to this or any other Government?

Mr. M. J. Moran said that there was a time when, having no National Parliament, expressions such as these from the Corporation might have been valuable, but now, when they had a National Parliament, he thought that this discussion was a waste of time. If the Government felt that they could not release these prisoners he was satisfied. The safety of the people was of far bigger importance than the release of these people.

Mr. O'Callaghan said that he agreed with those who wanted an amnesty for the men.

Mrs. Wyse-Power cited the report of the National Red Cross of Geneva on the condition of the prisoners and the camps.

"Show camps," retorted Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington.

Mr. Raul—If prisoners are not ill-treated why are they not allowed visitors? He complained that prisoners were ill-treated. It would be more beneficial if the Government spent the million of money the prisoners were admittedly costing on public works and the develpoment of the country. The release of the prisoners would do more than anything else to restore conditions under which the Free State Government could govern.

Mr. Doyle's amendment was defeated without a division.

Mr. Flanagan's resolution was then put to the meeting, and, on a division, there voted for the resolution—Aldermen O'Reilly, T. Lawlor, Councillors Logue, Sheehy-Skeffington, J. Clarke, Hynes, Raul, Brennan, John Lalor, M. Flanagan, O'Callaghan, Mooney, O'Malynn, Chase, Medlar, Daly, Brohoon, O'Toole, and Senator T. Farren—19.

Against—Aldermen H. Clarke, A. Byrne, Councillors McIntyre, M. J. Moran, Mahon, P. S. Doyle, J. J. Murphy, G. Lyons, and Senator Mrs. Wyse-Power—9.

The Lord Mayor declared the resolution passed.

THE RELEASE OF THE PRISONERS

Major W. G. Dease presided at the monthly meeting of the Celbridge No. 1 District Council, when a resolution from the Macroom District Council, calling on the Government to release all the prisoners unconditionally, was read.

Mr. Travers—I think we are all in favour of the prisoners being released. We want them released.

Chairman—Oh, certainly, have them released.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The Westport District Council adopted the Macroom resolution demanding the unconditional release of the prisoners.

A FORGED CHEQUE.

NOISY PRISONER TAKEN FROM THE DOCK.

In the Southern Police Court, Dublin, yesterday, before Mr. Cooper, K.C., John McDonnell was charged with uttering a forged cheque at the provision shop, 102 Upper Leeson street, to William Cullen, with intent to defraud; with obtaining £5 on the cheque from Mr. Cullen on the 18th inst, and attempting to obtain £20 on it on the 19th inst. The cheque purported to have been drawn by the Rev. Thomas Finlay, S.J., 35 Lower Leeson street. There was also a charge against the prisoner of absenting himself from the Dublin Metropolitan area without notifying his movements.

William Cullen, grocer, Leeson street, stated, that on the 18th inst. the prisoner called on him, and asked him to cash a cheque, which, he said, that he had from Father Finlay. The witness said that he had only £5, and that he would give him the balance on the following day. He got a receipt from the prisoner for the £5 that he gave him. McDonnell said that he was on the staff of the Jesuit College, 35 Lower Leeson street, and had been sent for the money.

Owing to his persistent interruptions during the evidence, the prisoner, by the direction of the magistrate, was removed from the dock and taken below.

The witness, continuing his evidence, said that the cheque presented by the prisoner was signed, "T. Finlay, S.J.," and was payable to L. J. Blake. It was for £57 10s. The witness took the cheque to the Hibernian Bank, College Green, next day, but found that there was no account. On the 19th September he got an order for goods signed "L. J. Blake," but did not send them.

The prisoner was allowed to return to the dock, but his renewed interruptions led to his removal again.

The Rev. T. A. Finlay, S.J., said that he did not sign the cheque, and there was no one named Blake in the employment of the Jesuit College. He did not authorise the order for goods.

Constable 52 G said that he took the prisoner into custody at the Civic Guards' barracks at Balbriggan. When charged he said, "It's all right. I'll tell you all when I get back." Later he made a statement in which he said that he went to Mr. Cullen's and presented a forged cheque for £57 10s., telling Mr. Cullen that the cheque was from Father Finlay, and that he was his secretary.

Detective Sergeant Redmond stated that the prisoner, when charged at the Bridewell, said, "There is nothing that I can say except that they are all right." The accused also said that the Acts of 1871 and 1879 were not now in force. "They are," he said, "English Acts of Parliament, and we are now living under a Free State."

The prisoner was remanded for a week.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

THEIR TRUE CHARACTER.

Mr. J. Charles Kelly writes as follows from the Town Hall, Rathmines:—

The necessity for industrial schools is proverbial, and, notwithstanding this fact, many do not understand their true character. Industrial schools must not be confounded with reformatories. These latter presume the juveniles to be guilty of some offence, though generally not of a serious nature; while children are sent to an industrial school because of destitution, need of proper guardianship, and similar causes. The following is a summary of the grounds upon which a lawful order of detention may be made:—

(Industrial School Act, Sect. XI.)

1. A child found begging or receiving alms.
2. A child found wandering and not having any home.
3. A child found wandering and not having any settled place of abode.
4. A child found wandering and not having any proper guardianship.
5. A child found wandering and not having any visible means of subsistence.
6. A child found destitute and being an orphan without any parent.
7. A child who frequents the company of reputed thieves.

Industrial schools in Ireland are strictly denominational. They are established either exclusively for Catholics or exclusively for Protestants.

Of the large number of these schools in Ireland, it may be safely said that the largest and best equipped is that of Artane Industrial School, Dublin. This school is certified for 800 boys, and is under the charge of the Christian Brothers. To carry out the training of the boys the rules of the school direct that the industrial education be distinguished from the scholastic instruction. The industrial education embraces many trades, such as painting, weaving, carpentry, tinsmiths, tailoring, fitting, boot and shoe making, harness-making, etc., as also farming on a very large scale. There are at Artane suitable workshops for the teaching of all these trades, and it is interesting to note that as a result of the efficiency of the school it is at the moment in a flourishing condition. No commodity is purchased, everything manufactured—their own bread, electric light, etc.

A point worthy of note is that the children on completing their school term are placed in a position to earn a livelihood—they are rendered self-reliant, industrious, and capable of self-control.

I have visited many of these schools, another of which is Carriglea, Monkstown, Co. Dublin, and I think it is a great pity that the public do not display more interest in them, and, perhaps, pay a visit to them. If they did, I am convinced they would come away very satisfied that the money granted to these schools is well spent. Industrial schools have a grant from the State. The Industrial School Act became law on the 29th May, 1868, the bill being introduced by The O'Conor Don, M.P.

DUBLIN SHOOTING AFFAIR.

The young man who was shot in Lower Sheriff street, Dublin, on Sunday night, is still in a somewhat dangerous condition. He will be operated upon to-morrow for the removal of the bullet, which entered his left side. The man's identity has not been disclosed. When questioned yesterday by the doctor attending him at the Mater Misericordiæ Hospital, he gave his name and address as "Charles Murphy, 4 Philipsburgh avenue, Fairview," but the police, on calling, found No. 4 to be an old demolished house.

IN THE THEATRES.

"THE LITTLE DUCHESS."

Dublin has had its full share of musical plays and musical comedies, all of them above or below a certain level of mediocrity, but at last we have in "The Little Duchess" a new musical play, presented last night at the Gaiety Theatre, a production which fully justifies that class of entertainment. It is new and it is tuneful; abounding in pretty songs, excellently rendered, it is as full of wit and humour as it is free from stupid vulgarity, and it is richly mounted and well acted.

There is a story—and a pretty love story at that—running through the two acts and five scenes into which it is divided. The Prince of Novojazzo has been deposed, and the throne is put up for sale by auction. The highest bidder "turns up" in the person of Sam Purvis, a "war profiteer," who is accompanied by his wife, Emma, and his daughter, Beatrice. The deposed prince falls in love with Beatrice, and, after many pretty songs and amusing scenes, everything ends happily.

Fred Colley and Miss Tilly Foulds, as the Prince and Princess, are very mirth-provoking, particularly in their passages with the deposed Prince, in which part Mr. Leslie Jones acts with dignity and restraint, and proves himself the possessor of a rich and resonant voice, which is heard to excellent effect in such songs as "It was my home," in the opening scene. As Beatrice, Miss Isabel Rhys-Parker plays the heroine's part with grace and freshness, and she captured the audience by the beauty of her voice, her duet with Mr. Leslie Jones evoking a storm of applause, as also did her rendering of "I love you so."

The other principal parts are very well taken, those deserving of special mention including Zephyrine, by Miss Babs Farren, quite a bewitching dancer and songstress; Zabaroff, the Prime Minister, by Mr. Charlton Morton, whose quaint physical evolutions cause not a little merriment.

The musical compositions by G. H. Clutsam reach a high standard of excellence, and are well rendered by a specially augmented orchestra under the direction of F. J. Legrand.

There was a large audience last night, and there was every evidence of cordial appreciation. Dances, some in glowing Eastern settings, were gracefully rendered, and the whole colouring of the performance in songs and music, dances and costumes, abounded in richness and variety.

There will be matinées on Wednesday and Saturday.

THEATRE ROYAL.

There were full houses at the Theatre Royal last evening, and the entertainment was good all round. The top of the bill was given to Albert Whelan, whose repertoire of song and story was well received now, as it often was before. Mr. Whelan is a personality on the music hall stage. He dresses in faultless style, and his manner is unemotional to a degree. He has many amusing songs, but his favourite seems to be the "Darling Girl From Clare," and it certainly pleased his audience last night. Joseph Bennett and Edward Richards, in an amusing sketch entitled "Dark Clouds," evoked hearty laughter. They are a versatile pair of comedians. Marie Kendall produced some funny character studies, but the best was that of the lady candidate, who promised a new heaven and a new earth if she was "voted in." Alec Daimler and Dora Eadie were quite successful in their clever interlude. Winifred O'Connor, a sweet soprano, sang three songs very artistically. Alec Regan, Little David Weir, and the Original Emilions completed the programme.

ABBEY THEATRE.

It was the easiest thing in the world to laugh in the Abbey Theatre last night. Those who have not seen it could never guess from the title that Mr. George Shiels's comedy, "Paul Twyning," is so funny; the few to whom it was not new laughed again last night with the abandon of complete enjoyment. Mr. Barry Fitzgerald is an artist whose capabilities are well known, but in Paul, the tramp plasterer, "bred, born, and educated in Dublin, thanks be to God," he has a part that he could play to the delight of Dublin every night for ever so long a run. His is a perfect study of many a "jurr" tradesman that used to roam Ireland in the days not so very long ago. Mr. Gabriel Fallon's presentation of the farmer who got on well enough in the world to be made a magistrate is very true, indeed. Mr. P. J. Carolin's Patrick Deegan, the publican, is not so much overdrawn as some who did not know rural Ireland 30 years ago might imagine. The remainder of the cast is good, Miss Christine Hayden, if the Americanisms are right, being especially so. During an interval Miss Sara Allgood sang folk songs such as "I once loved a boy," and "I know where I'm going." Hers is natural singing, that brings the song and its surroundings vividly before the mind. The interpretation of Mr. W. B. Yeats's "Ballad of Father Gilligan" was masterly elocution. Dr. Larchet's orchestral programme for the week is—Overture, "Son and Stranger"; selection, "Manon"; "Eve," prelude (Massenet), and Elgar's "Carissima."

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

Large audiences at the Queen's Theatre last night welcomed the production of E. Vivian Edwards's domestic drama, "Her Only Son." The story is one which appeals to most lovers of melodrama. There is little sensationalism, but a good deal of homely sentiment is introduced. The son is played by Charles L. Keogh, who handles the part with assurance. William Macready makes a very successful appearance in the rôle of John Armitage, a collier, and Isabel Norman is good as his wife. The romantic element in the play is skilfully handled by Edna Godfrey Turner, as Violet Hawthorne, the Ironmaster's daughter. Billy Irving, who for some time has been distinguishing himself in comedy rôles, has many opportunities to display his talents in the part of a young grocer. St. Aubyn Miller and Nora Glenn, newcomers to the Queen's Theatre, appear to advantage as Charles Hawthorne and Kitty Mitchell, respectively. William Melvyn plays the part of Maurice Page, described on the programme as "the Shadow in the Sunlight." The cast also includes Donald Edwardes (Jack Mayne), George Wallace (Rev. Joshua Page), and Evelyn Lund (Agnes Page). The play is produced by William Macready, and is well mounted.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

Last night Tivoli Theatre patrons renewed the acquaintance of Harry Taft, a comedian whose patter always has the merit of originality. His topical allusions and "stage effects" caused much merriment. Wally Hall's song and story found equal favour with the audience. Bert Lloyd was the principal character in an amusing comedy playlet. Other contributors to the programme were:—Famora, "the Laughing Wizard"; Pearl Beresford, mezzo soprano; Leah Victoria, comedienne; and Fred Cooper, Australian stockwhip expert.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.

Patrons of the Olympia Theatre are this week treated to a very pleasant, though disconnected performance, in the nature of a revue, entitled "All Pep." There are ten scenes, and Messrs. Harry Singer and Harry Dalva may be congratulated on the fact that their production is above the average standard of merit. The music throughout is tuneful, there is some capital dancing by a well-trained chorus ballet, while the singing of the principals is good. The duet, "You stole my heart," is a very pleasing item, and other songs that are well sung include that describing old-time dances, "The Geisha of Japan," "When the lights go down in Jappy Town," and "Dreaming in the twilight." The apache dance is a thrilling "turn." A lot of fun is provided by Charles Paton and Reg. Wakefield in their bookmaking scene and in other items. The Japanese tea garden scene is a charming one, and the show throughout is interesting.

PRINCESS CINEMA.

The gross receipts at the Princess Cinema, Rathmines, this week will be given to the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Myra House, Dublin. A good film is being shown in "Enchantment," a Paramount Cosmopolitan production, which attracted a large attendance to the theatre last night. Miss Marion Davies pleased all by her representation of the petted society favourite in the story.

MYRA CARNIVAL.

The Myra Carnival, at Princess Park, Rathmines—in aid of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul—has been gaining greatly in popularity. Newly-introduced novelties have "caught on," and everywhere one perceives a willingness to open the purse. The keenest interest has been taken in the Irish dancing competitions and in the "Houdini" performances of a Scoto-Australian, while the ballroom has had its full quota of visitors every nig[ht].

EARTHQUAKES IN PERSIA.

VILLAGES COMPLETELY DESTROYED.

123 KILLED AND MANY INJURED.

TEHERAN, Monday.

Considerable damage was caused by earthquake shocks on Thursday at Bujnurd, in the province of Khorasan. Several villages are reported to have been completely destroyed.

The casualties, so far as is known at present, are 123 dead and about 100 injured. Shocks in the district are continuing. Damage was also done at Shirwan.—(Reuter.)

SIMLA, Monday.

A severe earthquake occurred at Kerman, Persia, during Sunday night. The first shock lasted two minutes, and four subsequent shocks occurred during a period of ninety minutes this morning, followed by tremors.

Considerable damage was done to buildings, but there was no loss of life. The shock was felt at Bafk, Rafsnjanu and Baroanel. Its effect reached Tashkhant and Dushak.—(Reuter.)

∴ Bujnurd and Shirwan, in the Khorasan Province, lie in the North of Persia. Kerman and the other villages mentioned are in East Central Persia, 500 miles to the south of Bujnurd. The severe shocks in Khorasan on Thursday seem to have been local, while the lesser tremors of Sunday in Central Persia were felt over a wide area, extending to the frontier of Turkestan.

COUNTY COUNCIL RATE QUASHED.

NEW LEVY ORDERED.

At the Trim Quarter Sessions, before County Court Judge Fleming, K.C., an appeal by John Leonard and Patrick Toole against the rate struck by the Meath County Council for roads in the Dunshaughlin Rural District came up for hearing.

Mr. A. Dickie, K.C., with Mr. E. J. Kelly (instructed by Mr. A. Steen), appeared for the appellants. Mr. J. C. R. Lardner, K.C., with Mr. W. D. Sainsbury (instructed by Mr. T. Noonan), appeared for the Meath County Council.

Mr. Dickie said that there was a legal limit to the expenditure for roads, beyond which the County Council could not go. The estimates sent in by the Dunshaughlin Rural Council was £17,700, but the Local Government Department sanctioned only £10,588, leaving an excess of £7,112.

Mr. Lardner said that the two appellants, leading ratepayers in the district, were within their rights in questioning what was undoubtedly an excess of expenditure. The County Council officials were not to blame. Counsel read the County Surveyor's report to the Dunshaughlin Council, in which he set out the actual road expenditure at £10,588, but the Rural Council increased the estimate.

His Honor made an order, which was agreed to by both counsel, declaring the rates for the County of Meath for the service of the year 1923-24 for the rural districts, other than Dunshaughlin, to be valid and legal rates, and as regarded the rate for the Dunshaughlin Rural District as to expenditure for roads he declared the rate as void and invalid, as it was in excess of the limit of expenditure for the year 1923-24, authorised by the Ministry of Local Government. He directed the County Council to forthwith strike a new rate for the Dunshaughlin Rural District, limiting the expenditure on roads to a sum not exceeding £10,588. Credit was to be given for rates already paid in the new rate.

Mr. Dickie said that the County Council had a peremptory duty put on them, and this was to see that the estimates from the Rural Districts did not exceed the legal limit. The Dublin County Council thought that once the estimate came in they were bound to pass it, and that was what caused all the trouble there.

His Honor allowed a sum of £120 for costs. He said that Mr. Lardner had explained to him how the error arose as regarded the County Council.

Mr. Lardner paid a tribute to the way in which they had been met by the other side.

ROBBERIES IN MEATH.

MAN WITH A TOY REVOLVER.

Last week a farmer from Rathmolyon named Hughes, while driving home from Trim, in a pony and trap, was stopped within half-a-mile of his house. A strange man presented a revolver at him, saying that he was from the Irish Republican Army. He, it is alleged, demanded £10, because, as he said, Hughes had sold pigs. Hughes said that he did not sell any, and gave the man 19s., after which he left.

The same man, it is alleged, next visited the house of a man named Hanley, in the same locality, and the occupier's wife had to hand him over £1. Another house was visited, and a bicycle, which was outside, was taken. It was found next morning at the Fair Green in Trim.

On Saturday, at a special court in Trim, before Mr. John Malone, a young man named John Matthews was charged in custody with having been guilty of attempted robbery under arms at Rathrisk on September 18.

Sergeant Jordan, Civic Guard, Trim, said that the case was not complete, and asked for a remand.

Guard McKenna said that he visited Mrs. Julia Hanley, Rathrisk, who reported that a man entered her house on the 18th inst. He was armed with a revolver, and demanded her money, and threatened to kill her. From a description he arrested the accused in Summerhill, and found on him a toy revolver (produced).

The accused was remanded to the next Trim District Sessions.

CHICAGO, Monday.

WHEAT opened barely steady, ⅛c. to ¼c. down, and declined farther on increasing stocks, larger North-West receipts, and a poor outside demand; but later rallied on bullish weekly foreign statistics, stronger corn and North-West markets, shorts covering, and a demand from commission houses, millers, and cash interests. The market closed firm, 1⅛c. to 1¼c. higher. Spot steady. No. 2 hard winter, spot, 106; No. 3 hard winter, spot, 104. September, 102⅞; December, 104⅛; May, 109⅝.

CORN opened steady, ⅛c. to ¼c. up, on a better cash inquiry, adverse crop reports, and shorts covering; then eased under more favourable weather and realising; but again strengthened on small country offerings, expected lighter interior receipts, and bull support. The market closed firm at 1⅛c. to ⅞c. advance. No. 2 mixed, spot, 89⅞. September, 88⅞; December, 69⅛; May, 70⅞.

PROVISIONS opened quiet, and declined on lower prices for hogs, unfavourable European advices, heavy receipts, scarcity of buyers, and local selling. The speculative sentiment was bearish throughout, and the market closed easy, with lard 12½ to 7½ down and ribs 10 points lower to unchanged; pork unquoted. EXPORTATION OF IRISH CATTLE.

NEW REGULATIONS.

The attention of all persons engaged in the cattle export trade is directed to the new regulations in regard thereto which have been issued by the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, as announced in our advertising columns.

These regulations are contained in the Department's Order, entitled the Exportation of Animals (Irish Free State) Order of 1923, which comes into operation on the 1st proximo, and apply to all cattle shipped from Free State ports. A corresponding Order of the Secretary of State for the British Home Office, entitled the Exportation of Animals (Northern Ireland) Order of 1923, contains similar regulations with regard to shipments from Northern Ireland as from the same date.

On that date also there will come into force an Order—the Irish Animals (Marking) Order of 1923 (No. 2)—issued by the British Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, the effect of which is to require a special method of marking for Irish animals before leaving the landing places in Great Britain.

The changes effected by these three Orders in the procedure with regard to the exportation of animals from Ireland, and to their landing and removal from the landing places in Great Britain, may be summarised as follows:—

MARKING AND DECLARATION.

(1) Cattle intended for shipment must be accompanied by a declaration made by the consignor or his authorised agent, on a prescribed form, giving certain particulars with regard to each lot of cattle—i.e., the names and addresses of the persons from whom they were purchased, the place and date at which they were purchased, and showing how they are branded or otherwise marked for the purposes of identification when landed in Great Britain. This declaration must accompany all cattle consigned to a port for shipment to Great Britain, and where the animals are consigned by railway the declaration must bear a certificate signed by the stationmaster or constable on duty at the station indicating the name of the station and the date of entrainment. By constable in this connection is meant, in the Irish Free State, a member of the Civic Guard or the Dublin Metropolitan Police, and, in places outside the Irish Free State, a member of the regular Constabulary on duty at such places.

(2) The present requirement as to marking of cattle, before landing in Great Britain, with a clipped cross will cease to operate as from 1st October, but the inspectors at the shipping places are empowered to refuse the necessary health certificate in respect of any head of cattle which is not marked in such a way as will enable the animal to be identified in Great Britain or which is not accompanied by the prescribed declaration duly completed.

EAR-TAGGING IN GREAT BRITAIN.

The effect of the British Order is to require every head of cattle landed from Ireland to be tagged in the ear with a numbered metal tag of approved pattern, to be supplied by the occupiers of the landing place. Arrangements have been made whereby the tags will be supplied to owners of cattle who are themselves prepared to fix the tags at a charge of 1d. per tag. In the case of booked-through cattle the arrangements are that the tagging of such cattle will be undertaken by a contractor on behalf of the occupiers of the landing places at a charge of 2d. per head, in addition to the cost of the tag (1d.). The tags will be fixed in the ears of the cattle either by the owners of the animals or the tagging contractor, as the case may be, whilst the animals are undergoing the prescribed 10 hours' detention and, in any case, before they leave the reception lairs.

Before any licence authorising any movement out of the landing place is granted, the Ministry's inspector will require to be furnished with a declaration to the effect that the animals in respect of which the licence is applied for have been tagged in the approved manner, and to be supplied with the tag numbers and destination of each lot of cattle.

Copies of the declaration form may be obtained at police barracks and railway stations throughout the Free State or direct from the Department's offices.

WRECKED AEROPLANE.

INQUEST ON VICTIMS IN IVINGHOE ACCIDENT.

The inquest on the five victims of the aeroplane accident at Ivinghoe, Bucks, was concluded yesterday. The evidence showed that the machine was passed by the Air Ministry's inspector a few days before the accident, and there was no sign of explosion or any technical defect when it was examined after the accident. Its ballast consisted of bags of earth and stones.

The pilot, Pratt, joined the company on August 14 last. It was the first time that he had acted as first pilot on that particular route, but he had travelled it on two or three occasions as second pilot. There was no doubt about his ability, said the general manager.

In summing up, the Coroner said that questions had been put which should not have been put, unless they could be substantiated. There was no evidence that there was anything taking place in the aeroplane.

Returning a verdict of accidental death, the jury found that the cause of the accident was unknown, and that no blame attached to anyone. They expressed the opinion that loose ballast should not be carried.

TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

BAND OF HOPE CONGRESS MEETS IN BELFAST.

Speaking at the United Kingdom Band of Hope Congress, in Belfast yesterday, Mr. W. Bingham, J.P., Chairman of the Union, said that they had to train their children in such a way that the system of providing liquor at public entertainments would in future come to be regarded as unnecessary.

He trusted that the time was not far off when Ireland and Great Britain would be as wise as America, and place the liquor traffic under the ban of the law. If that was to be done every man would have to be instructed in what was true liberty.

True liberty was the outcome of wise constraint. Let them pass from those meetings, realising, if they could, the grandness, the greatness, and the sacredness of the task to which they had committed themselves.

Mr. Alderman Neal announced at the London Guildhall that if any more cases of cruelty to horses came before him he should require the direct representative of the firm concerned to be summoned, and would adjourn such cases until he got the heads of the firms who were responsible.

DEAFNESS DEFEATED

THE awfulness of constant silence—To see yet not to HEAR men and women speaking—The feeling that they are speaking "about" you—To see people, traffic, birds, anything, and hear no sound. Is that your lot?

Until recently you could obtain little relief—that is to say, no real, natural relief. TO-DAY YOU CAN HEAR. Our appointment book contains the names of those who, deaf this morning, will HEAR to-night, and, in many cases, these patients will be accompanied to our offices by eminent Aural Specialists.

There is an "Acoustique" for YOU (one of 35 types) and a scientific test will give you the aid your case requires, and to-day YOU WILL HEAR—not a "buzz," not a "shout," but sounds in their natural tones—aye, even a whisper—bringing you the wonderful joy of living you have lost or may never have experienced.

The "Acoustique" exclusive NON-HEAD ATTACHMENT renders it inconspicuous for men as for women. Like nature, it is unobtrusive and unfailing, due to Heredity, Mastoid, Sclerosis (throat), Fever (quinine), Measles, 'Flu, perforated drums, or no drums at all. There is an "ACOUSTIQUE" for EVERY case, slight or acute, for young or old, no matter cause, extent or duration.

Individual Demonstrations and Tests Free.

Our Special Demonstrator is now in DUBLIN by request, and those desiring a test or interview should immediately write, call or 'phone for an early appointment at address below.

IRISH TEAM AT SOUTHERNDOWN.

MIDLANDS WIN BY 6 MATCHES TO 3.

A CADDIE'S BLUNDER.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

SOUTHERNDOWN, Monday.

Ireland, who will oppose Wales here to-day, were unexpectedly beaten by 6 matches to 3 by the Midlands yesterday.

In view of the comparative strength of the Irish team, probably no more interesting struggle could have taken place than that between Bretherton and Captain Martin. Incidentally, the latter will, in all probability, have to scratch from the Welsh Open Championships this week owing to matters concerning his military leave from India. However, yesterday he showed that on most occasions he is at least the equal of Bretherton. Martin drove from the first tee, and for the first seven holes he had the honour, as he won the first and halved the others. Then Bretherton squared at the eighth, only to see Martin get a superb four for the win at the ninth.

Misfortune came the way of the Irish champion at the tenth. Bretherton took his now famous aluminium club and got to within holing distance. Martin, on the other hand, was off the line slightly, and he was very heavily punished. Bretherton won the eleventh. For the first time in the match he took the lead at the thirteenth. Martin's troubles then became of such a nature as to preclude the necessity for Bretherton to hole out. Half after half followed, and finally Bretherton surprisingly got down a putt of nearly twenty feet on the eighteenth to win by two holes.

Another fine struggle was seen between G. N. Humphries and Major Hezlet, a former Irish Native Champion. Humphries was more than once a trifle lucky, particularly when his ball just skimmed the crown of the bunker from the first tee, when a couple of inches would have meant dire disaster. Nevertheless, he reached the eighth with a one hole lead.

At the ninth the Irishman looked morally certain to square the match. However, his caddie, in using the flag pin to indicate the line to the hole, thoughtlessly scored the turf of the green, and Hezlet was instead now two down. He angrily dismissed the boy, and a friend voluntarily carried the Irishman's clubs for the remainder of the match.

The effect of the incident was only too obvious in Hezlet's play subsequently, he being beaten on the fourteenth green.

R. P. Humphries found Ector Munn a tough golfing proposition. Despite the Midlander's long hitting, the Irishman was not in the least perturbed, and his manner of sinking long putts on the eighth and ninth greens for wins to square was admirable. Humphries thereafter proceeded to make himself 2 up at the twelfth, and the game was as good as over. D. Wilson Smyth against Prowse gave a fine exhibition against the Light Blue golfer, and he was quite heroic in the way he snatched the fifteenth and sixteenth to square the game. Prowse eventually had to go to the eighteenth before he could claim the win. James Henderson was two up with three to play against Sutton, who took the Irishman to the last green before the latter could win.

The first victory for the Irishmen was secured by Walter Carroll, of Greenore, who in a splendid match beat D. S. Bruce at the twentieth; but F. E. Davies suffered a heavy defeat by W. A. Bennett, the Coventry golfer winning by 7 and 6. Results:—

McDonnell; Hon. Treasurer, V. N. Corrigan; Hon. Secretary, F. Regan, The Chestnuts, Carlow. The club is now open for fixtures.

SOCIETY OF REFEREES.

A meeting of the Society of Referees will be held this evening at the Moira Hotel at 8 p.m.

ANGLING.

COUNTY DERRY RIVERS.

The Roe is in excellent order, and in the past week several salmon up to 12lb. were killed by local rods below Limavady. The Faughan is also in order and plenty of sea trout running up from Lough Foyle, so that good fishing till the end of the season is expected. The Faughan brown trout are small, but plentiful. The Moyola, which has all its course through County Derry, closes on the 30th inst. It is in fair order at the moment, and giving some sport. The Agivery tributary of the Bann, which has also a Derry course, is in fair trim and fishing well. Mr. W. Vaills, Coleraine, fishing this water last week killed 30 trout.

The Commissioners inquiring into the flax water pollution in the North of Ireland are making independent experiments into the nature of this scourge of fish life. The rivers of Derry suffer terribly from this scourge.

WATER POLO.

IRISH CUP—FIRST ROUND.

There was a good attendance at Tara street Baths, when the first round of the Irish Cup was decided, as well as an exhibition junior match.

SANDYCOVE 2nd v. REST OF LEINSTER.

Teams:—

Sandycove—P. J. O'Neill, J. Allen, W. Fitzhugh, T. Byrne, C. P. Kenna, G. Higginbotham, C. Higginbotham.

Rest of Leinster—C. R. Batt, R. W. Poots, D. C. Maher, A. Barrett, C. Carroll, A. Healy, R. Laverty.

Referee—Mr. H. F. Case.

The opening exchanges favoured Sandycove, but G. Higginbotham shot wide. Coming again, Sandycove were rewarded with a good goal, scored by Allen. Shortly afterwards Laverty scored for the Rest, but the goal was disallowed for an infringement. From the free Byrne placed to G. Higginbotham, who scored. At half-time Sandycove led by two goals to nil.

The Rest had rather the better of the second half, but O'Neill and his backs played finely. Poots hit the upright, and shortly afterwards Carroll struck the crossbar with good shots. In a Sandycove attack C. Higginbotham scored a third goal, and near the final whistle the same player added a fourth. Result:—

Sandycove 2nd—4 goals.
Rest of Leinster Juniors—Nil.

CLONTARF v. DUBLIN.

For the Irish Cup match both teams had good sides on duty. S. Barrett was absent from Clontarf, and Dr. Sexton and H. M. Dockrell from the team that represented Dublin in most of their League games. Teams:—

Dublin—W. Kay, A. D. Egan and W. Judd, N. M. Purcell, J. O'Connor, J. H. Dockrell, and F. W. Leland.

Clontarf—H. F. Brennan, T. H. Corrigan and H. Healy, J. S. Brady, A. J. Cullen, J. Quinn, and B. G. Fagan.

Referee—Dr. J. Beckett.

Dublin attacked at the start, but Egan sent wide from a good position. From the goal throw Clontarf attacked, but Purcell and Kay defended well, the goalkeeper, in particular, saving in brilliant style. In a Dublin attack O'Connor was fouled, and, placing to Leland, the latter scored from short range. Afterwards Kay again distinguished himself with some fine saving, following which Purcell, getting away unmarked, scored with a very fast shot. Half-time:—

Dublin—2 goals.
Clontarf—Nil.

Clontarf, on the whole, had the better of the second half, but brilliant goal-keeping by Kay saved the situation for the champions. In a raid on the Clontarf goal Purcell scored a third goal, and shortly after from a free Leland added a fourth. Clontarf played up well, and after further good goal-keeping by Kay, Fagan reduced the leeway with a fine shot. No further scoring took place, and Dublin ran out easier winners on the score than was represented by the play. Result:—

Dublin—4 goals.
Clontarf—1 goal.

TO-NIGHT'S MATCHES.
IRISH CUP—SECOND ROUND.

Dublin v. Pembroke. Referee—Mr. J. P. Tallon.

Sandycove v. Dublin University. Referee—Mr. N. M. Purcell.

Dublin team v. Pembroke.—W. Kay, W. F. Judd, A. D. Egan, N. M. Purcell (capt.), J. A. O'Connor, J. H. Dockrell, and F. W. Leland.

LAWN TENNIS.

ENGLISH TEAM BEATEN.

COPENHAGEN, Monday.

Play in the lawn tennis match between a British team and a side representing Denmark came to a conclusion to-day, when the remaining two singles were decided. In the first A. Petersen (Denmark) beat M. Temple (England)—6-1, 6-2, 6-2; and in the second E. Worm (Denmark) defeated R. Lycett (England)—11-9, 7-5, 6-1. The final result was, therefore, a victory for the Danish team by four matches to one.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

D.M.P. ATHLETIC CLUB.

With a view to placing the Dublin Metropolitan Police on a level, as regards sport, with other forces, it is proposed to form a club, to be known as the Dublin Metropolitan Police Athletic Club. A preliminary meeting will be held this evening in the Gymnasium, Kevin street Training Barracks, at 6.30, which all members of the Force desirous of joining are requested to attend.

With the object of training for forthcoming championships and League matches, hurling, football, athletic, cycling, and handball clubs will be formed. At the preliminary meeting captains of the different teams will be selected, and other matters relative to the working of the various sections considered.

It is known that a large amount of athletic talent is lying dormant, especially amongst the recently joined recruits. With a view to bringing this to the front the Chief Commissioner, Major-General Murphy, has given directions that every facility is to be afforded athletes, old and young, for training.

Already a flourishing Gaelic football club has been started in the various divisions, and this is being run on the League principle—Division v. Division. In a replay match between the C and F teams played at Croke Park last week the F team won by a small margin.

A few weeks ago Constable Terence O'Reilly obtained permission to travel to Cork, where he carried off the handball championship of Ireland. A surprise was thus created when he was beaten at Ashtown on Sunday at the hands of another constable, B. J. Daly. The match was for the Co. Dublin Senior Handball Championship, and Daly won by one odd game in a rubber of seven, winning the deciding game without allowing O'Reilly an ace.

BOXING.

SEAMAN HALL v. VANT HOF.

At the Ring, Blackfriars, London, last evening Seaman Nobby Hall (Chatham) beat Vant Hof (Holland) on points over fifteen rounds. Hall won because of his superior ringcraft. It was a splendid fight throughout, the Dutchman, who was in splendid condition, proving a really game boxer. Hall's greater experience stood him in good stead, and although Vant Hof brought out all that was best in the Chatham boxer, he could not quite get on level terms.

BROADCASTING IN THE FREE STATE.

PROPOSAL TO FORM A COMPANY.

The Press Association understands that negotiations for the formation of a broadcasting company in the Irish Free State are proceeding satisfactorily. At least six companies are interested in the scheme, and it is likely that a company will be formed with which firms now in conference with the Post Office will be associated.

It is laid down that the company shall have a guaranteed capital of not less than £30,000, and shall undertake the erection of a broadcasting station in Dublin, with, possibly, relay stations at Cork and Limerick. The Post Office will be represented on the Board.

It is proposed that the licence shall operate for five years, and that the company, which shall be at liberty to manufacture or sell wireless receiving apparatus, shall receive a share of the fees charged by the Post Office, which will range from 30s. per annum for an ordinary licence to £1 a week for amusement purveyor's fee.

Negotiations are proceeding for the reopening of Clifden wireless station, for communication with Canada and the United States.

RETIREMENT OF DR. CHAVASSE.

To mark the retirement of Dr. Chavasse, as Bishop of Liverpool, a presentation was made him yesterday of a cheque for £3,807, a silver tea and coffee service, and an illuminated address. Upwards of £4,000 was subscribed by Church people throughout the diocese, and also by members of the Free Churches.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"PROFITEERING" IN THE FREE STATE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—With reference to the article in your issue of last Friday on the price of meat, I write to ask how long the Dublin, or any other housewife in Southern Ireland, is going to sit still under the "profiteering" that is now going on. I am sure that there are thousands who, like myself, are being ground between the upper and nether millstone.

I am a farmer, finding it nearly impossible to sell my fat cattle, even at pre-war prices; yet I have to pay for the meat for my household between two and three times the pre-war prices. Butcher's meat, which used to cost 8d. per lb. before the war, is now 1s. 4d. to 1s. 8d., the 1918 prices, and I live in Munster, too—not in Dublin. My provision merchant told me recently that until the public makes a stand against present prices the retailers can do nothing to lower them, but that, if there was any kind of organised resistance, prices would soon come down.

The British Government fixed a fair price for necessaries of life during the great war, but our Free State Government does nothing to help us, while the cost of living is the root of nearly all the strikes and trouble in our part of this isle of unrest. My butcher drives a motor car. I am thankful to be still able to keep my donkey trap.—Yours, etc.,

"MARROWSKYING."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The letter of "S." which appeared this morning in your columns reminds me that in my childhood, now many years ago, an old cousin used to entertain me with what we now call "Spoonerisms," but which she termed "Morowskis." On my inquiring the reason for this curious name my cousin told me that her mother (who dated from the eighteenth century) had taught her the game, stating that the original perpetrator of these strange transpositions was a Polish Count who was well known in London society of that period.—Yours, etc.,

"E. D-N."

Dun Laoghaire, September 24th, 1923.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The following quotation may be of interest to your correspondent "S.," although it does not throw any light on the derivation of the word "Marrowskying." In Vol. IV. of Farmer's and Henley's "Slang and its Analogues" (printed for subscribers in 1896) the following entry will be found at p. 286:—"Marrowskying, subs (general)—At the London University they had a way of disguising English (described by Albert Smith in 'Mr. Ledbury,' 1848, as the 'Gower street dialect'), which consisted in transposing the initials of words: as 'poke a smipe'—'smoke a pipe'; 'flutter-by'—'butter-fly'; 'stint of pout'—'pint of stout'; etc. This is often termed 'Marrowskying.' See Medical (or Hospital Greek)', 1883; Sala 'Living in London,' p. 491:—'On the whole the Kankneigh Awlminek seems to consist in pretty equal proportions of the vocabulary of Tim Bobbin, Josh Billings, Joe Scoup, the Fonetik Nuz, and the Marrowsky language.'"

The entry against "Medical Greek" does not give any further information of any value. Curiously enough, Farmer's and Henley's work, although running to seven volumes, the last of which was published in 1904, contains no reading or reference that I can find to "Spoonerism."—Yours, etc.,

ONE-WAY TRAFFIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I am in a position to say that the views expressed in your leader last Saturday, favouring the one-way street traffic control in Grafton street, which is at present in force, are not shared by the majority of the firms doing business in the street.—Yours, etc.,

ALFRED FANNIN.

HUMAN RELATIONS.

VISCOUNT GREY ON TRUE PERSPECTIVE.

Viscount Grey of Fallodon, addresinndg the International Conference of Students in London yesterday, said that a gathering of that nature could do something to promote a truer perspective of human relations. They could do something to make it felt that the things which divided mankind were more superficial than they suggested, and that the things which ought to unite them, and which they all shared, ought to be a more active bond of sympathy than they had hitherto been. He believed that the future of civilisation greatly depended upon the extent to which a true perspective of those things could be brought into human relationship, and the part which the rising generation could take in doing that must be very important.

Knowledge was not a national thing. It was a sort of intellectual commonwealth among mankind, which transcended the barriers of nationality. The last war was against militarism; but they could not say yet that militarism had been defeated. If there was sufficient public opinion in Europe in favour of settling disputes by means other than war, then they would have gained by the victory. If nations could come together on the firm understanding that the supreme interest was that the peace of Europe should be preserved, civilisation would continue to progress, instead of being devastated by another war.

"NASH'S-PALL MALL."

AN EXCELLENT MAGAZINE.

There is much in the October number of Nash's-Pall Mall Magazine to justify the ambitious claim put forward on behalf of that publication to rank as Britain's greatest magazine. The number contains the opening instalment of "The Dream," which promises to be a thrilling new novel by H. G. Wells, and the unfolding of the tale promises the reader a fearless discussion and a flood of new light upon such evergreen topics as love and marriage, sex and human destiny, religion and ethics. Probably no writer of the present generation fills a larger place in the public eye than the author of "Kipps," and his latest story has the advantage of a series of beautiful illustrations by Herbert M. Stoops. Apart from the high literary value of the stories, the illustrations throughout the number are up to a high standard of excellence. Barry Pain contributes an article on "Conversation" containing food for reflection, while "The Stage To-day" is an artistic feature, illustrated in photogravure.

The fiction includes "Swampshade," by Octavus Ray Cohen, illustrated by L. F. Wilford; "Jungle Law," by J. H. R. Wylie, illustrated by Pauett Carter; "The Man Who Grew a Beard," by Struthers Burt, illustrated by W. H. D. Kaerner; "The Shrimp," by Horace Annesley Vachell, illustrated by W. Halherell, R.I.; "Eve on Eden Point Island," by Royal Brown, illustrated by Dalton Stevens, and "The Heart of A Pirate," by Frank R. Adams, illustrated by Charles D. Mitchell, with serials by Robert Hitchins and Rex Beach.

BELFAST'S NEW RESERVOIR.

Lord Carson is to cut the first sod on the site of the new reservoir works in the Silent Valley, Mourne Mountains, on Wednesday, 10th October. The Belfast Water Commissioners are providing special trains from Belfast to Newcastle and return, and also motor coaches for the journey between Newcastle and the works. After Lord Carson has been introduced by the Chairman of the Board, he will be presented with a spade by Sir Ernest Moir, Bart. At 12.45 Lord Carson will cut the sod, and Mr. J. Miskimmin, J.P., will thank his lordship on behalf of the Commissioners. Luncheon and afternoon tea will be served, and some time will be spent in viewing the valley.

GOOD RACING AT LEICESTER.

EASTERN MONARCH'S EASY WIN.

CHILDS' FINE FINISH ON AMETHYSTINE.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.
LEICESTER, Monday Night.

There were several inquiries this afternoon here for the French four-year-old, Rose Prince, for the Cesarewitch, in which he is handicapped to carry 8st. 3lb. I believe that all the long odds available about this colt have been snapped up, and bookmakers generally were shy of doing business, except on a 20 to 1 basis. It would be an astonishing thing were the French people to bring off the great autumn double—the Cesarewitch with Rose Prince, and the Cambridgeshire with Epinard. Rose Prince, who is owned by Mr A. K. Macomber, the owner of Parth and Golden Boss, has good form in France, and is certainly a great stayer, probably the best stayer in France.

Much of the racing here this afternoon was interesting. As I expected, Eastern Monarch won the Leicestershire Stakes. He won it very easily, too, from Rosemead and Dark Fox, though the official margin in his favour was only a length. It is remarkable how well the St. Leger form is working out, Eastern Monarch being the third of the horses unplaced at Doncaster to win since. Taylor ran Splendid Jay, instead of Concertina, but the filly began slowly and finished last.

Now that the going is soft Broken Faith is able to demonstrate how useful he is in second class handicap company. He was heavily supported for the Oadby Handicap, and beat Revival cleverly by three-quarters of a length, the Irish Oaks winner, Becka, being a head away, third. Broken Faith gains a 5lb. penalty in the Newbury Cup for his success here, but the stable can rely on the Manchester Cup winner, Bhuidhaonach, though I believe the latter's most important objective is the Cesarewitch.

AMETHYSTINE'S NARROW WIN.

Backers had a very severe reverse over the Maiden Two-Year-Old Plate. The Tetrarch filly, Treize, had made such a good impression when she made her first appearance at Manchester that it seemed sound business to lay odds on her. She had not too smooth a passage in the race, and was beaten off into third place, Amethystine, whom Captain Boyd-Rochfort trains for Lady Nunburnholme, winning by a head from Lord Lonsdale's Berengaria. Joe Childs rode one of his finishes that are so delightful to watch on the winner, bringing her just at the right moment to win on the post. Amethystine is a very nice Hainault filly, her dam being a mare by Lesterlin, out of Cairngorm.

Cabaret Girl, who on her last outing had run away from Double Melody at Phoenix Park, was a runner for the Rancliffe Selling Plate. The patrons of Jack Leader's stable supported her for a little at 6 to 1, but, although she ran forward, she was never quite good enough to enable Jack Leach to get in a blow, and in a fine finish Communicative beat Midnight Folly a neck, with Irish Ditch, the favourite, a head behind the pair.

TO-DAY'S CARD.

Should ORLAND run for the Leicester County Nursery to-morrow afternoon I would not look beyond him for the winner. He is undoubtedly well handicapped, for he is a more than useful two-year-old. In his possible absence MISSAL may be good enough to beat Morals of Marcus. It is not a very intriguing programme that is set down for to-morrow outside the big nursery, but I think YOUNG MAN'S FANCY looks a fairly good thing for the Leicestershire Selling Handicap.

FRANKLIN has gone to Lanark to run for the Silver Bell, and nothing is likely to beat this good horse, who was so great a favourite with the late Lord Carnarvon.

NEWBURY CUP.

DAY OR DAWSON?

EPINARD'S CAMBRIDGESHIRE CHANCE.

FROM A FORMER HANDICAPPER.
LONDON, Monday.

Considering the number and the class of horses sent to Scotland, the measure of success which Lord Rosebery met with was far below the stable's estimate. With the exception of Poetaster, all were beaten on their merits. The son of Roseland had his full share of bad luck, as, after starting slowly, he was crossed and almost completely knocked out of the race. He can, therefore, be regarded as a winner without a penalty for his engagements at Edinburgh on Wednesday and Thursday. As his best distance is six furlongs, the Buccleugh Handicap on the first day will probably be the race selected for POETASTER. Some of the other Southern Ayr failures have a chance to make amends at Lanark and Edinburgh. Young Pole is so very tired of racing that he need hardly be considered for the Silver Bell to-morrow. Should Franklin turn up, he would have a comparatively easy task here. Present intentions are to run Norseman. The son of Roi Herode is none too reliable. If it had not been for Donoghue's artistic handling of him in the County Cup, this hot favourite would have been defeated by Gasper. The conditions of this race favour ORPI.

In the Lothians Handicap at Edinburgh on Wednesday Lord Rosebery's HIGH FORCE is nicely treated with 7st. 11lb. The Bass Rock Plate will not require much winning. The Northern candidates may experience some trouble in getting the better of FLYING LANCE. T. Waugh has been very patient with this filly, and now that he has got her to his liking she should, barring accidents, win quite comfortably.

The Caledonian Hunt Cup would, indeed, be an interesting affair if Franklin, Norseman, Silver Band, Orpi, Scaliger or Vambrace, Phaon, and Craig Eleyr or Monk of Blyth happen to meet. J. Jarvis is not likely to run both of his candidates; neither is Peacock. Quite outside of what is probable in this race, the running of Craig Eleyr or Monk of Blyth in this company would be illuminating—the former showing us a good deal about Papyrus, the latter by way of a direct pointer to the back-end handicaps. Apron managed to overthrow the Middleham "certainty" in the Great Yorkshire Handicap, but was the form correct? Peacock's only fear was that a light-weight jockey could not get the best out of the "Monk," and his fear was realised. Now that PHAON has found his form, the son of Phalaris may upset another Middleham plunge.

Sun Charmer had not the best of luck in the Ayrshire Handicap, in which Weston, allowed to make his own pace, simply fooled all the other jockeys. This was an entirely false run race, which was won more by Weston than The Night Patrol. The North Country jockey somewhat exceeded his instructions from the Hon. George Lambton, but there was no complaint, and many of the other jockeys, including Carslake and V. Smyth, were thinking very hard after the race. SUN CHARMER is by no means overweighted in the Edinburgh Gold Cup on Thursday. White Bud, of course, appeals as a most unlucky loser of two handicaps within about a month. Werwolf has turned very cunning, but he is always liable to upset any fancied candidate.

PERORATION or HALIDOME may justify J. Jarvis's confidence in the Barnbougle Nursery. GASPER has a rare chance in the Inveresk Sweepstakes. If this were a handicap, I am afraid he would not appear with 8st. 13lb.

Newbury, of course, is all-important so far as the South is concerned. The Newbury Autumn Cup should enlighten us about the Cesarewitch. Nearly all of the principal candidates for the Newmarket event are engaged here, and the result of this race will, in my opinion, create some change in the market quotations. The Cesarewitch problem would practically be solved on Saturday if the following meet:—Juniso, Ceinturon, London Cry, Bessema, Little Marten, Ceylonese, El Obeid, Vilna, and Apron. The supporters of Ceylonese for the Cesarewitch are not at all comfortable in seeing Apron so closely pursuing the son of Willonyx in the quotations. They have visions of another Tishy débâcle. There is really nothing whatever mysterious about this support of Apron. It is merely precaution. If all goes well with R. Day's horses, Ceylonese will be his best in the Cesarewitch. Meanwhile, he holds a powerful hand in the Newbury Cup with Bessema (8st. 5lb.), Ceylonese (8st. 4lb.), Revival (7st. 6lb.), and Apron (7st. 2lb.) to select from. And so does R. Dawson with El Obeid (8st. 2lb.), Vilna (7st. 13lb.), and Saucer (7st. 6lb.). I think the issue will be fought out between R. Day's and R. Dawson's selected.

TWELVE POINTER won the Scottish Derby so easily that he should have little difficulty in annexing the Kingsclere Plate on Saturday. Persse has had a lot of trouble with the son of Royal Realm, and at last he has got him all right. After the St. Leger confidence there ought to be a good few races at the mercy of the Duke of Westminster's horse.

I fail to find any of the principal trainers here the least bit enthusiastic about Epinard's chance in the Cambridgeshire. In a word, they think the French horse is set an impossible task. Meanwhile, the French division have scared everyone with another plunge.

TO-DAY'S SELECTIONS.

The concluding day's programme at Leicester does not on paper appear as likely to provide such good racing as that of yesterday, but still some interesting racing should be forthcoming, especially if Morals of Marcus and the Clio filly are pitted against each other in the Leicester County Nursery, while Missal, Orland, and Double Entendre cannot be left out of the reckoning. Morals of Marcus, with the exception of her last outting, has put up some really good performances. The Clio filly has now won twice off the reel, and is mulcted in a 10lb. penalty. Orland was the conqueror of Sword Play (level) at Worcester, and Lady of Lemnos was successful at Derby. The Leicestershire Handicap presents a pretty puzzle, for not many in the list of acceptors would realise the amount of the stake were they offered at auction. Fine Gold, Kent Eaglet, and Young Man's Fancy appear to have chances, but I noticed Knee Cap very prominent in the race won by Nymphida at Yarmouth. The Kegworth Stakes promises the best race to-day. Despite her penalty, I cannot see anything to beat Nymphida, unless it is Wellwisher. Selections:—

Welbeck Plate—Molette.
Leicestershire Handicap—Plus Fours.
County Nursery—Morals of Marcus.
Bradford Handicap—Murray.
Kegworth Handicap—Nymphida.
September Plate—Castile.

[The figures in front of the names of the horses are an index to placings in their last three engagements—reading from right to left.]

CRICKET.

HASTINGS WEEK.

LORD COWDRAY'S XI. v. REST OF ENGLAND.

Happily for everyone concerned, rain did not interfere with the cricket at Hastings yesterday, play going on from half-past eleven until the light became too poor, and stumps were pulled up at half-past five. Lord Cowdray's XI., for whom Hobbs and Hardinge had made 40 without loss on Saturday, and altogether put on 82 for the first wicket in seventy minutes, looked like doing only moderately well when four wickets fell for 114; but Calthorpe and Woolley, by splendid forcing batting, added 100 before lunch in fifty-five minutes. Subsequently Arthur Gilligan, taking five wickets for 18 runs, was chiefly responsible for the last six wickets falling in the forty minutes following the interval for another 50 runs. Altogether, Calthorpe and Woolley put on 123 in sixty-five minutes for the fifth wicket. Both drove superbly, Calthorpe hitting 2 sixes and 7 fours, and Woolley one six and 12 fours.

The Rest began badly, three wickets falling for 26, but Sutcliffe and Chapman added 36 in forty minutes, and after the fall of the fifth wicket at 110 Sutcliffe and Crutchley scored 43 without loss, so that the Rest, with five wickets in hand, finished up 112 behind. Chapman batted magnificently, while Sutcliffe did not make a mistake in a splendid innings, which so far has lasted about two hours. Score:—

NORTH-WEST SENIOR LEAGUE.

In the North-West Senior League on Saturday, St. Johnston defeated Waterside by seven wickets. Waterside secured 50, and St. Johnston made 55 for three wickets. This defeat of Waterside, and the fact that Greerstown scratched to Sion Mills, means that Sion are now at the top of the League with a point more than Waterside. Both these teams have yet to meet. City of Derry and Royal Sussex divided the points, the ground being unplayable. Brigade were defeated by Knockdara. Brigade made 35 and Knockdara 37 for six wickets.

MINOR CUP FINAL.

In the North-West Minor Cup final Aberfoyle defeated Greerstown by 10 wickets. Greerstown made 21 in their first innings and Aberfoyle replied with 55. Greerstown scored 49 in their second innings, and Aberfoyle then hit up 23 without loss. S. Jamieson, Aberfoyle, got seven wickets for 5 runs in Greerstown's first innings and did the "hat trick."

BILLIARDS.

NEWMAN v. SMITH.

Commencing the second week of his 16,000 match with Smith at Manchester 300 in arrears, the ex-champion yesterday, with breaks of 117 and 183, levelled the scores, but Smith quickly went ahead again with breaks of 150, 242, and 115. Newman, at the interval, was in play with 387 (unfinished). Interval scores:—Smith, 8,333; Newman, 8,200.

Play fluctuated in interesting fashion during the evening session, Newman twice taking the lead. The ex-champion made his incomplete effort into 462, and other runs were 164 and 162. Smith's best were 122, 108, 119, and 95. Closing scores:—Smith (in play), 9,001; Newman, 8,821.

FALKINER v. STEVENSON.

Although Falkiner was over 2,000 points in front, the interest in this game at Liverpool yesterday was well sustained. Stevenson, in the afternoon, was in capital form, and in top-of-the-table items strung together 214, 214, and 310, whilst Falkiner's best being 171. Interval scores:—Falkiner, 8,272; Stevenson (in play), 6,796.

In the evening Falkiner was playing well, and compiled 148, 76, and 550 (with 120 close cannons), Stevenson's best being 234. Closing scores: Falkiner (in play), 9,167; Stevenson, 7,340.

LONDON STOCKS DULL.

GOOD TONE.

The Stock markets yesterday were dull, though the tone was good. There was very little business doing, week-end accumulations being very small, and the orders mostly for securities of an investment character. The speculative markets depended mainly upon professional support, which did not prove to be large. Gilt-edged stocks showed a firm front, but changes were few and far between. British Funds showed no alteration on the day.

In FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES the feature was the strength of French Loans. The 4 per cent. rose 1 to 23, and the 5 per cent. rose 1½ to 30. Brazil 4 per cent. of 1889 rose 1 to 41, Czecho-Slovakia Bonds 1 to 99, and Japan New Fives 1 to 84 Uruguay ½ to 52½.

HOME RAILS were very dull, the only change being a rise of ¼ to 32¼ in London and North-Eastern Def. Ord.

COLONIAL AND FOREIGN RAILS were irregular. Argentines were generally lower. B.A.G.S. at 87, Pacifics at 82½, Westerns at 79½, and Centrals at 72½, each lost ½. "Canpacs" fell 1 to 156, Leopoldinas ½ to 22, and United of Havana ½ to 73½. Antofagasta Ord. rose ½ to 89, Central Uruguay 2½ to 46, and Entre Rios Pref. ½ to 61.

OIL SHARES FAIRLY CHEERFUL.

EAGLES BETTER.

Taken as a whole, the Oil share market had a fairly cheerful tendency yesterday, although, in common with other sections of the House, business was restricted, attention in this department being mainly devoted to a few specialities. The price movements finally recorded were mostly in favour of holders. Chief interest among the leaders once more centred on Mexican Eagles. The selling which had the effect of depressing the price in the closing days of last week appeared to have ceased, following the more hopeful views expressed regarding the payment of the dividend on the 7 p.c. Prefs., while the rather large line of the latter which were overhanging the market last week are believed to have been absorbed. The market in the shares was still, however, a very sensitive one, but, nevertheless, the day's business resulted in a recovery in the Common, 8 p.c. and 7 p.c. Prefs. In sympathy with them, Eagle Oil Transfer Prefs. moved up. Shells were a firm market throughout the day, and, indeed, looked like going much better, but the advance was held in check by a steady stream of sales. Despite the selling the shares left off at an advance. Royal Dutch also displayed firmness, an appreciable gain being finally recorded. Burmahs met with a fair amount of attention, but the day's business resulted in a slight decline. While Anglo-Persian New Ord. were offered and moved down, Anglo-Americans registered a recovery. Transactions in Roumanians were small, but Phœnix were in moderate request and strengthened. Very little attention was devoted to Trinidad issues, the only alteration in the group being a slight gain in United British, these shares being inquired for on anticipations of a satisfactory return for the past week. Russians were in some request, and moved up on hopes that Sir Henri Deterding may have a favourable report to make to the international group of Russian oil producers at their meeting this week with regard to the possibility of a resumption of operations by the various companies. In other directions British Controlled were favoured, being influenced by the latest progress report, and V.O.C. Holdings also improved. Closing prices:—

LONDON WOOL SALES.

At public sale two catalogues were offered jointly totalling 11,561 bales, and comprised 2,491 bales New South Wales and Queensland, 2,739 Victorian, 5,510 New Zealand, 389 Cape, and 378 Buenos Aires. The above constituted a somewhat miscellaneous assortment, with cross-bred selections again well in evidence. Fair competition prevailed at prices showing no particular alteration. Home and Continental representatives continue to absorb the bulk of the offerings, while there is no new development regarding the American section, whose requirements remain on a very limited scale. Attractive top-making wools continue to receive support from Bradford as well as French houses.

LONDON MINING SHARES APATHETIC.

BRAKPANS A GOOD MARKET.

Mining Shares were not very popular, and dealings in Kaffirs were of a very limited character, notwithstanding the fact that Paris was rather inclined to support some of its specialities, and Johannesburg advices were to the effect that steadiness ruled in that centre. Already suggestions are being made as to the results of the current month's operations on the Rand, and it is fairly safe to assume from the nature of developments on the leading producers, as recorded by private communications, that profits will show a considerable improvement upon those for the previous month. There has been no real selling of importance and floating supplies are limited, so that any demand based on the justifiable expectation of increased dividends at the end of the year is expected to result in a higher level of values being established. Few features presented themselves, and most of the leaders were content to maintain former levels; but Brakpan were a good market on the news of proposed enlargements. The cost is estimated at £40,000, which sum is available without drawing on current profits. Among the lower-priced descriptions Nourse Mines and Mozambique were harder, the last-named on the news of the coming active development of the company's resources. Rhodesians presented a rather dull appearance, thanks mainly to the interpretation of the latest news from the B.C. silver property of the Selukwe. The mailed advices which were posted in the House were of a technical character, and, according to dealers, afforded little information as to the exact position of affairs. The shares fell sharply, and the dulness of these caused a general reaction throughout the section. Cam and Motor were without support and fell away, and Globes and several others followed their example. In the early hours Paris was inclined to buy De Beers, but they fell back later to, the overnight level, and other Diamonds were quiet. A jump of £5 to £202 11s. 3d. per ton in the price of the metal created a good impression in the share market, where a strong demand found the floating supplies somewhat short. In the Miscellaneous department San Francisco were again in demand, and there was considerable nibbling at some of the Canadian issues. Kirkland Lake announces good developments on the seventh level. Closing prices:—

MINING REPORT.

Selukwe Gold Mining and Finance Company.—"During the month of August 368 feet of tunnelling and 762 feet of diamond drilling have been accomplished. In drifting along the ore zone we have found that on account of it striking more into the hill than was at first anticipated—and, therefore, making more depth—we have gradually been getting out of the enriched zone. With a view to keeping development within this zone, we, therefore, commenced No. 2 level during the month, at an elevation of 265 feet above, and directly over, the centre line of No. 3 level. This level has been driven 120 feet during the month. Rock was reached at 60 feet from the portal, but so far the rock has been badly broken, necessitating timbering to the face. We anticipate that No. 2 level will reach the ore zone at about the end of September. No. 3 Tunnel—Drift No. 331 was advanced 201 feet, thus bringing the face 763 feet from Station 321. Three short cross-cuts, Nos. 318, 319, and 320, were driven as diamond drill pockets, and diamond drill holes, Nos. 6, 7, and 8, driven from cross-cuts, 301A, 317, and 318 respectively. The whole of this work was in porphyry. Diamond drilling is being temporarily suspended until we are in a position to operate the machine on the No. 2 level."

INDUSTRIALS UNCHANGED.

TONE CONTINUES FIRM.

While there was very little change in conditions ruling in Miscellaneous and Industrial markets yesterday from those which characterised dealings during the greater part of last week, rather more inquiry was reported and business was on a slightly larger scale. A firm tone was noticeable in most sections, though movements on balance were generally confined to narrow limits, and revealed some irregularity. Nitrates commanded fresh interest, the outlook for this industry being regarded as very encouraging, and higher levels were again the rule. Textiles were devoid of feature, but in the Stores group Harrods B. A. Prefs. were wanted, and moved up. One or two Land shares displayed strength, Forestals and Bays showing up well. Iron and Steels moved irregularly, but Shipping issues kept steady. The Wireless group held their ground, though cables showed irregularity. Among Miscellaneous Trading concerns Nestle Prefs. still received support, as a result of which they closed 9d. up on balance at 21s. 6d. Mappin and Webb Prefs. stiffened to 16s. 9d., and Parent Tyre Deferred improved to 1 1/16, though Dunlop "A" Prefs. shed 3d. to 15s.

As a result of some good support, Criterion Restaurants rose sharply to 8s. 6d., or 2s. 6d. higher than Friday last. Gordon Prefs. appreciated to 5⅜. Among Brewery descriptions, Watney, Combe Def. continued their upward movement to 177½. St. Louis Prefs. put on ½ to 5½, and City of Londons improved to 2 1/16. In Caterers Liptons were subjected to profit-taking, and lost 6d. at 30s. 6d., though J. Lyons strengthened to 4 11/16, and in Foodstuffs Bovril Def. rose 6d. to 29s. 6d. Liebigs put on another ⅛ to 15¼. Maypole Pref. eased to 11/16. Siemens Bros. fluctuated a good deal, for after being sold down to 12s. 3d. at the opening some support was forthcoming which caused a sharp recovery to 14s. 7½d. They closed at round about 14s., or 1s. higher on balance. Firmness characterised Tobaccos B.A.T.S. rose 6d. to 108s., and Imperials a like amount to 73s. 3d., while United Souths strengthened to 67s. 9d. ex div. News shares were off colour. Daily Mirrors dropped 1/16 to 7¼, and Associated Def. ⅛ to 8⅛. George Newnes fell 6d. to 16s. 6d. Among recent issues London Electrics continued in demand, and further rose to 45s. 3d. South Wales Debs. improved to par, but Lima Light Debs. gave way to 2 discount, and Enfield Cable Prefs. to 6d. discount.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

North Broken Hill, Limited, have received the following cable, dated 22nd inst., from the head office at Melbourne:—"A diamond drill hole, running out at an angle from the main crosscut on the 1,550ft. level, passed through ore for 115ft., which distance is equivalent to 100ft. cross width of lode in Section 13. The average assay value of the ore passed through is 15.4 per cent. lead, 8½ ounces silver, and 12½ per cent. zinc.

Now that it is reported that powerful German interests have completed the terms of big timber concessions in Russia, embracing some existing railways, the question arises of the standing of British holders of Russian Railway bonds generally. Such loans were originally provided to construct or extend railways, and constituted in the first instance an obligation, otherwise a debenture debt of the individual companies, but both as to principal and interest, were, and still are, an immediate responsibilty of the Russian Government. Constitutionally, the position of the bond holders would appear to be sound, and while it is not suggested that the Germans have done so, any interference by foreign interests in the affairs of the individual railways systems would not be tolerated. There might be no redress in Russia itself, but it could be obtained diplomatically elsewhere if necessary.

The markets are curious to know what is the real diplomatic situation since the Paris interview. At present some transactions are being held back because of uncertainty. The conditions, for instance, appear to many people hardly to favour issues of new capital, and it is doubtful whether these will come forward after the quarter end as readily as they would if the international situation were more clearly defined. On the Paris Bourse dealers are asking their Government for enlightment, and British financial interests think that secrecy, if a new position actually exists, is not the best way of helping industrial and financial development.

There can be no blinking the fact that the export credit schemes inaugurated a few years ago have turned out to be a dismal failure in the sense that their operation has fallen far short of original aspiration. When the schemes were first mooted the prolonged trade stagnation obviously could not have been foreseen, nor the havoc caused to international trading by the collapse of the exchanges. These influences, of course, have restricted the area of operations under the schemes. The failure of the scheme to come up to expectations is the subject of an article in the current Westminster Bank "Review," under the title of the "Limitation of Export Credits." Although after four years of painstaking efforts credits actually taken up reached but 5½ millions sterling, or the equivalent of between two and three days' foreign trade, it would be unfair to judge merits or demerits on figures alone. The state of Europe has been such as to neutralise any artificial stimulants to trade. Nevertheless in other countries the experience of export credit schemes has been equally unsatisfactory. The writer of the article asserts that the British scheme comparatively has more than held its own, and the fact that a large proportion of the twenty-six millions set aside for the purpose has not been used proves that "the causes of trade depression lie much deeper than can be remedied or even substantially alleviated by artificial devices of this character." In conclusion, it is pointed out that an inference might be drawn from the criticism of the weaknesses of the scheme that there can be no great expectations from it after the sobering experience of 1919-1923. This, it is asserted, is "undoubtedly the truth. The scheme from the beginning has been frankly one-sided in that its success mainly depended upon the steps taken by the countries desiring the long term credits."

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS STRINGENT.

EXCHANGES RALLY.

In places there was considerable tension so far as loanable credit was concerned, this being the outcome of weekly balancing operations. The minimum for day to day loans was 2½ per cent., with 2¾ paid, while fixtures were renewed at 2½, with 2¾ demanded for new weekly money. The condition of credit was not relieved by the bank buying with some freedom November paper at 2 11/16 per cent., but discounts were inclined to ease, principally because three months' bills are now end-year maturities. The new Treasuries were 2 11/16-3, and fine three months' bank bills were 3 1/16-3⅛. A special demand was in evidence at the lower figure.

Bank Rate (Discount) changed July 5, 1923, 4%.

Gold was 3d. lower at 90s. 5d. per ounce. Silver fell back a farthing for spot to 32 1/16d., and 1/16d. for forward delivery to 31 1/16d.

An optimistic feeling prevailed in the market for foreign exchanges concerning the reparation possibilities, and values improved sharply. Francs were very good, the rate on Paris being down to 73.40, reacting to 74.20-74.30, and on Belgium 84.20-84.30, after 83.40; while Italian lire were good at 98¾-99½. Sterling rallied on New York to 4.55½-4.55⅝ dollars, while Dutch money depreciated to 11.56½-11.57½. German marks being quite nominal at 600-800 millions. Spanish currency had a sharp improvement to 32.60-32.65, Norwegian kroner being dull at 28.33-28.36. Argentine dollars experienced a further setback to 39 11/16-39 15/16, Brazilian milreis being easy at 5¼-5 5/16, Chili at 36.20. Rupees were rather easy at 1s. 4 1/16d.-1s. 4 3/16d., Japan not being so good at 2s. 1 1/16d.-2s. 1¼d. Polish marks were 1,300,000-1,500,000, Rumania 970-980, Vienna 320,000-325,000. Stocks and Shares for Deferred Delivery Account.

BY this method of dealing, investors may buy any freely marketable security, quoted above 5/-, making an initial payment of 20 per cent. (one-fifth) in cash or securities of the amount of purchase money, the remainder being paid at their own convenience, or may be left outstanding indefinitely. On the amount of unpaid purchase money we charge interest at the rate of 1 per cent. per annum above Bank Rate. After paying the 20 per cent. (one-fifth) of the amount of purchase money, a client is entitled to sell the security at any moment, receiving his deposit back plus any profit or minus any loss.

ALL dividends, bonuses, and rights are credited to the buyer's account. Transfer stamps and fees are not charged unless the security purchased is taken up. We are prepared to make advances against approved marketable securities up to 80 per cent. of their market value, charging interest at the rate of 1 per cent. per annum above Bank Rate on the amount advanced. It will be seen, therefore, that investors who desire to purchase for Deferred Delivery Account, but who have no immediately available liquid resources, may do so by depositing with us marketable securities. For instance, against securities worth £100 we will lend £80—which, if invested on the above method, would buy £400 worth of securities, the £80 representing one-fifth of the amount of the purchase money.

REFERENCES. Without fear of contradiction we claim that there is not one investor who can say we ever failed to pay prompt cash for stock sold or to deliver stock bought, and we are prepared to furnish Bankers', Chartered Accountants', and first class commercial references on application.

About a Filing System

Swift Reference

Life is too short for mediæval filing methods; the office work should go with a swing. It can't in many offices.

Yet the thing that is wrong can easily be made right, so easily that you will wonder why the old footless methods were so long permitted to hold up business.

With the card index system any paper required (out of perhaps 10,000 filed in the same cabinet) can be to hand in 30 seconds. All waiting and circumlocution is cut out. The Business man of to-day cannot afford to work with old apparatus.

Will you step round to our warehouse; the salesman will demonstrate how an hour can be added to your day and work got through with less worry than your present methods entail.
